HUNS 9 MILES FROM THE MARNE

NATION HONORS MEN OF G.A.R.

People Pause in Midst of World War to Remember the Lesson Set by the Men of '61

Columbia honors today her heroes of an earlier struggle, the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic.

This Memorial Day of Nineteen Hundred and Eighteen, when American youth is battling abroad to save the world, emphasizes more deeply than ever before the eternal debt that the present generation owes to those who saved the nation in the dark hour of the Civil War.

Increasing realization of this debt lends added significance to the day and to the nation-wide tribute to the wearers of the Union Blue, both the living and the dead.

In Boston and throughout New England—the latter boasted as the very threshold of New World liberty—the Memorial Day observances are especially elaborate and rich with meaning.

The splendid veterans, treasured survivors of the thousands who fought that the bond of national unity should not be shattered, are cheered and applauded as they march in parades on their day of annual memorial.

In the midst of the fierce thrust of such a war as the world has never known before, the nation pauses, from shore to shore, to render homage to those who proved their patriotism to fullest measure.

One year ago we had just leaped into the world conflict. That memorial Day brought a deeper sense of the valor of our Civil War heroes.

But this Memorial Day, with the nation a full year advanced upon the fateful field of war, drives home still deeper the lesson of the "Men of '61" and what they wrought for the generation of today.

One of the most sublime inspirations of this day is the strength and uplift it gives to all those who have gone overseas for the Stars and Stripes and to the thousands more who are in military training or about to enter the service.

To the young man in the olive drab of the army or in the naval blue the sight of the aged warriors of the Grand Army of the Republic gives renewed impulse.

The army and navy youths, surveying today the year-burdened lines of those who conquered in the Civil

GRACE LUSK IS CONVICTED IN 2ND DEGREE

Tries to Strangle Prosecutor as She Cries "You Lied My Freedom Away"

By L. J. WITHERS,
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

Waukesha, Wis., May 30.—Grace Lusk, was found guilty of murder in the second degree. The penalty is fourteen to twenty-five years' imprisonment.

This was the verdict after four hours' deliberation of the twelve men who have sat for two weeks in her trial for the slaying of Mrs. Mary Newman Roberts, wife of Dr. David Roberts, former State veterinary.

Scarcely had the verdict been announced when Grace Lusk rose quietly from her chair. Court attaches thought she was going to speak to the jurors.

As she neared the District Attorney, D. S. Tullar, she leaped upon him as a lion at its prey.

She buried her fingers in his throat with a grip which required two deputy sheriffs to remove, and which sent the blood coursing down his clothes.

"You lied," she cried. "You and your son, Morris Tullar, lied my freedom away."

And then she swooned into the arms of half a dozen court attaches who had rushed to the aid of the two deputies.

She revived as quickly as she swooned.

"A SET OF CURS," SHE CRIES.

Jumping to her feet she made a frantic effort to free herself. Then her voice rose in frantic shrieks above the great commotion of the crowded court-room.

"You're a set of curs. You lied and you know you lied," she screamed. Vainly the old father,

17 GERMAN AIRPLANES BROUGHT DOWN BY ALLIES

London, May 30.—Seventeen German machines have been brought down. Thirty-one tons of bombs were dropped on various targets, including Thionville. Six British machines are missing, the official statement on aviation says.

Divisions 'Leap-Frog' Over One Another in Attacking

By International News Service.

London, May 30.—Seven German divisions delivered the initial attacks in the offensive on the Aisne front, according to Hamilton Fyfe, war correspondent of the Daily Mail. Six more German divisions "leap-frogged" over them. There is now a total of twenty-one German divisions in that zone of combat.

There is greater secrecy about German troop movements now than at any other time since the grand offensive was opened against Amiens on March 21.

A German division consists of from 12,000 to 14,000 men.

SOX—SENATORS IN A. M. TILT AT FENWAY

By NICK FLATLEY.

Fenway Park, May 30. — A mere handful of "fans" ventured out to the Fens this morning to witness the first half of a double holiday attraction between the Red Sox and Senators.

Despite the damp and chilly weather, Managers Barrow and Griffith decided to go through with the program, fearful of piling up twin bills for later on in the season.

With Walter Johnson, Washington's "Ace," out of the way, Barrow's brigade was confident of cleaning up the present series with the visitors.

Provided weather conditions permit, another game will be played this afternoon, starting at 2.

AUSTRIAN EMPEROR GOING TO THE FRONT

Paris, May 30.—Emperor Charles of Austria is to leave Vienna soon for the Italian battlefront, according to information from Rome today.

PRESIDENT AT SERVICES FOR HERO DEAD

Visits Graves in Arlington Cemetery; Wreaths Scattered on Potomac for Victims

By International News Service.

Washington, May 30. — Peculiar solemnity was lent Memorial Day services for the nation's hero dead today at Arlington National Cemetary. With the knowledge that Americans daily are giving their lives in humanity's cause on the battlefields of France, the nation's capital suscended all but the most pressing war business to pay homage to those who gave al to the country in past conflicts.

President Wilson, members of Congress and allied diplomats united at the National cemetery in attendance on the exercises to laud the memories of the fallen, whose spirit is now in living form overseas. The President did not deliver an address.

Flags hung at half staff and every national monument was draped with the stars and stripes. Thousands of Washington's war workers journeyed to Arlington to hear the nation's representatives recall the deeds of heroes who have passed but who will never be forgotten.

Those who have already perished on land and sea in the present great struggle were honored by great floral wreaths launched on the Potomac at the foot of the Arlington slopes. Another wreath was floated down the river in remembrance of those who went down with the Lusitania. American and British cruisers lying in the harbor fired salvos as the floral tokens were launched.

Memories of the Maine were recalled when the graves of the men taken from the wrecked battleship at Havana were draped with flowers. Dr. Manuel Cespedes, the Cuban Minister, whose country has joined with the United States in the world war, paid a stirring tribute to the men of the Maine.

"We have nailed our flag with yours to the old mast of the Maine, and we won't give up the ship," he said.

The floral wreaths released on the Potomac and those placed upon the tomb of the Maine dead were sent to Arlington by President Wilson.

Nurse Dead, Yankee Hospital Patients Hurt in Air Raid

By BERT FORD,
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

With the American Army in France, May 30.—The Germans continue their campaign of terror against the rear of the American sector.

A vicious air raid was a deliberate attempt to bomb hospitals. One French nurse was killed, a second was mortally injured, and many of our soldiers who are convalescing were slightly wounded by shrapnel or glass splinters. The American and French patients were carried into nearby caves.

American nurses had narrow escapes from injury or death.

Both the troops and civilians in this area are highly incensed by these attacks.

SECOND AERIAL RAID ON PARIS FRUSTRATED

By International News Service.

Paris, May 30.—For the second time in two nights German airmen tried to raid Paris early today, but the machines were unable to penetrate the barrage fire from the high angle cannon.

One of the raiding planes was brought down in flames.

Some of the raiders got as far as the suburbs, where a number of bombs were dropped.

The danger signal was sounded at 11:20 and it was not until 2 a. m. that the all clear signal rang out.

DEMAND RECALL OF BOLSHEVIK ENVOY

Amsterdam, May 30.—Germany has demanded the recall of the Bolshevik Ambassador Joffe, accusing him of spreading propaganda.

BOCHES ROUTED BY BAYONETS OF YANKEES

Enemies Captured Had Been Told to Take American Prisoners at All Costs

By NEWTON C. PARKE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army in France, May 30—Following another heavy gas attack against the American front on the Luneville sector, the Germans attempted to raid our lines at three points.

The first attack, which was delivered over a front of two kilometers (slightly more than a mile) was completely repulsed by the fire of the American machine guns.

Shortly afterward, following a heavy barrage fire, fifty Germans attacked our lines a kilometer farther

Pekin, May 30.—The military accord concluded by Japan and China is of short duration, the minister of foreign affairs stated today.

RHEIMS MAY BE TAKEN BY HUNS

Reserves Rushed to Stem Aisne Onslaught; Allied Morale Is Excellent

London, May 30.—The Hun spearhead, at the centre of the advance, reaches to Loupeigne. This means a total advance for the drive of seventeen miles, and puts the German van within nine miles of the Marne River, from which Joffre rolled the enemy back four years ago.

By ERNEST P. ORR,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, May 30.—While the Germans have captured Soissons, fifty-five miles northeast of Paris, and are seriously menacing Rheims, the morale of the entente armies remains excellent and today fresh allied reserves were being rushed up to stem the latest German drive towards Paris.

The armies on the German centre have thrown a semi-circle about Rheims, but are meeting with stout-hearted resistance all along the line.

Since the German offensive opened between Rheims and Soissons on Monday morning, the Kaiser's field gray hordes have advanced between fifteen and twenty miles, and now they have driven a salient into the allied battle line until it extends south of the Vesle River to the sectors of Brouillet, Savigny and Tilot, slightly southwest of Rheims.

101 LOST WHEN U-BOAT SINKS TRANSPORT

London, May 30.—One hundred and one lives were lost in the sinking by a submarine on May 26 of the British transport Leasowe Castle, in the Mediterranean, the Admiralty announces. The captain, N. J. Holl, is among the victims. The statement follows:

"The transport Leasowe Castle, Captain E. J. Holl, was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine on May 26 in the Mediterranean. The following missing are presumed to have drowned:

"Military officers 13, other ranks 75. Captain and two wireless operators 3, other ratings 6."

The Leasowe Castle was of 9,737 tons gross.

into the fray on Wednesday the Germans were able to gain ground all along the thirty-three-mile battle line, but in failing back the British and French maintained their close contact and at no point were the lines broken, nor was the interlacing formation of the two armies split.

The Anglo-French forces were outnumbered very heavily, but the masterly strategy of General Foch, the allied generalissimo, is felt in every move and the tactics of the Germans were met by brilliant counter movements.

FRENCH STILL NEAR SOISSONS.

The Germans struck at Soissons from the east and succeeded in driving into the city, but at last reports the French were still clinging tenaciously to the eastern outskirts.

Ludendorff's blows have been falling with undiminished energy, and the battle was continuing with its utmost violence at last reports.

Evidently there is no point on the line where the Germans have concentrated their greatest pressure. They have been striking out furiously on both flanks and along the center, making the utmost efforts to extend their salient so that the Allies would be unable to menace the flanks.

Fresh details from the battle front show that the French forces holding Soissons fought with extreme courage, and for hours a bloody battle raged in the streets before the gallant police finally withdrew into the outskirts.

REFUGEES REACH PARIS.

The German War Office in an official report issued last night claimed fresh progress near Soissons and between Soissons and Rheims. In an earlier statement it was said that the number of allied prisoners had been increased to $25,000.

Thousands of refugees are arriving in Paris from the new battle zone around Rheims.

American Red Cross agents who are meeting the trains are caring for the fugitives.

Despite the loss of Soissons and the critical situation at Rheims, the people of Paris smile confidently while reading the war office communiques and waiting for the projectiles from the long range German cannon.

Premier Clemenceau, who arrived in Paris last night, stated to interviewing journalists that the situation would soon be re-established.

"The morale of the French troops is excellent," the premier said.

BATTLE RAGES NEAR RHEIMS.

A fierce swaying battle is raging around Loupeigne and Fere-En-Tardenois (west of Rheims) where German reinforcements under General von Winkler, General von Conta and General von Schmiettow have been brought up.

The French are resisting magnificently against superior numbers. Though they have fallen back slightly, they are fighting stubbornly.

Soissons was disputed furiously and the city changed hands three times before it was finally occupied by Von Larische's army.

South of Soissons the French have checked the Germans completely. General Vichara of the German army has been driving in the direction of Oulchy chateau.

Hard fighting has been carried on night and day around the shell shattered city of Rheims. The Germans' objective evidently is the Paris-Chalons railway, but they will find their path blocked by seasoned French reserves.

Italians Are Repulsed in Two Attacks, Says the Austrian Report

By International News Service.

Amsterdam, May 30.—Fighting in the Tonale sector of the Trentino front has increased, the Austrian War Office announced, according to advices from Vienna today. Two Italian attacks in the Monte Belo district were repulsed. On the Tower Piave the Italian artillery is active. The report claimed that two British air planes were shot down.

To Reward Shipyard Workers With Honor Medals

Washington, May 30.—Shipyard workers of the Hog Island fleet yards gives unusual aid to the prosecution of the war at home are to be rewarded with medals for themselves and honor flags for their yards just as conspicuous bravery is rewarded at the front in the instances of individual or regiment.

Edward M. Hurley, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, announces that at the suggestion of Charles M. Schwab, director-general of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, a system had been established for formal recognition by the government of especial services in the shipyards.

This recognition will take three forms: An honor flag for the shipyard showing the best performance for a month, to be awarded monthly, with a special permanent flag for any yard winning the award three months successively; bronze service medals to employes of any war industry under a special board, and individual medals of gold and silver to individuals for special performances.

GERMANS DRIVE TO DEPTH OF 17 MILES

Continue to Advance Swiftly, Relying on Light Artillery and Machine Guns

By ERNEST P. ORR,

Staff Correspondent of International News Service.

Paris, May 30.—Latest reports from the front are that while the German offensive is progressing much artillery has been saved from falling into the hands of the enemy. The number of prisoners lost is not unduly large considering the gigantic effort of the foe.

As the battle stood at this writing, Fismes on the Paris-Rheims-Verdun Railway, had been lost, retaken and eventually lost again, and to the southwest of this railroad center the German advance had reached the towns of Bruys and Lhuys. Bruys lies fifteen miles south of the Chemin des Dames and a sixty-mile airplane trip from Paris.

This places the maximum depth of the German advance in the centre at about seventeen miles since the offensive began.

AIMING AT RAILROADS.

It is presumed the immediate objectives of the Crown Prince are Fere-En-Tardenois and Chateau Thierry, sixteen miles southwest of Bruys, and both extremely important railway centres.

The fighting is fiercest for the double-track railway connecting Rheims with Paris by way of Fismes, the enemy coveting the sector of this line above Fere-En-Tardenois. The battle rages near Loupeigne (south of Bruys), which was the scene of bitter fighting in the Marne battle in 1914. The Germans are trying furiously to break through toward Fere-En-Tardenois, which is a large rail centre whence roads lead to the Marne, to Dormans and Chateau Thierry.

CARNAGE AT ST. MARD.

French wounded arriving in Paris describe the terrific carnage around the village of Saint Mard (southeast of Vailly), which changed hands six times, finally remaining in the hands of the Germans.

The enemy is not bringing up much heavy cannon, relying chiefly upon light artillery and machine guns. The French poured a hail of fire from their seventy-fives and machine guns into the dense ranks of German storming columns, which pushed on, over mounds of dead before coming to grips with the Poilus.

In the hand-to-hand fighting the French with fearful work with their bayonets until they were finally forced back by sheer weight of numbers. The Germans sacrificed artillery to speed, relying, besides, on light artillery and machine guns, upon their tanks and minne-werfener.

There is no doubt that the heroic resistance of the Blue clad Poilus at Saint Mard Village saved the French left at Vailly and the British, (in the fight) at Pozieres from envelopment.

Eyewitnesses say the two-hour battle that preceded the attack Monday morning was the most terrific experienced in the whole war, lighting up the sky for miles around and completely battering the Allies' first line trenches, while a flood of poison gas drenched the defenders.

NEW HAMPSHIRE DAM BREAKS, WOMAN DROWNS

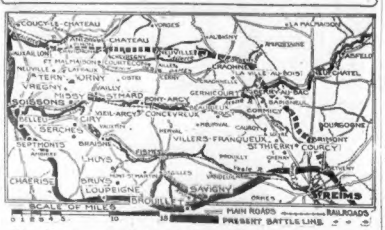
Hill, N. H., May 30.—As the result of the collapse of a new concrete dam here, an aged woman was drowned, two manufacturing plants, an electric light and power house, two dwellings, a railroad bridge and a quarter of a mile of railroad track were swept away.

Alone in her home when warned the dam was breaking, Mrs. Mary Kenney, ninety-two, was trying to make her escape from the house and two men had started to assist her when the rushing waters carried her and the wreckage of her home down the gorge. The men were caught in the torrent but managed to save themselves.

SUSPEND FARE INCREASE ON MIDDLESEX & BOSTON

Pending its decision, the Public Service Commission has suspended the proposed increase in fares on the Middlesex & Boston lines until July 1, unless otherwise ordered. The same action was taken regarding the Stafford, Attleboro & Woonsocket road. The New Bedford & Onset has petitioned for seven cent fares.

MAPS SHOW GERMAN GAINS IN BATTLE OF AISNE



The old and present lines of battle are illustrated by the dotted and the heavier line to the south. The latter now runs from Coucy-le-Chateau, through and cut off Soissons and close to Rheims, which may already be in German hands. The depth of the newly captured territory is thus seen to be about fifteen miles.

WILSON URGES NATION TO ECONOMIZE

AMERICANS BEAT OFF 3 GERMAN ASSAULTS

By International News Service.

Washington, May 30.—President Wilson, in an appeal to the American people, urges the American nation to economize to the utmost in all its purchases in order that the productive agencies of the country can be devoted to the fullest measure to the making of war supplies.

His statement reads:

"The war is one of nations—not of armies—and all of our one hundred million people must be economically and industrially adjusted to war conditions if this nation is to play its full part in the conflict. The problem before us is not primarily a financial problem but rather a problem of increased production of war essentials and the saving of the materials and the labor necessary for the present and the equipment of our army and navy.

"Thoughtless expenditure of money for non-essentials uses up the labor of men, the products of the farm, mines and factories, and overburdens transportation, all of which must be used to the utmost and at their best for war purposes.

SHOULD PRACTICE THRIFT.

"The great results which we seek can be obtained only by the participation of every member of the nation, young and old, in a national concerted thrift movement. I therefore urge that our people everywhere pledge themselves as suggested by the Secretary of the Treasury, to the practice of thrift; to serve the government to their utmost in increasing production in all fields necessary to the winning of the war; to conserve food and fuel and useful materials of every kind; to develop their labor only to the most necessary tasks; and to buy only those things which are essential to individual health and efficiency and that the people, as evidence of their loyalty, invest all that they can save in Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps.

"The securities issued by the Treasury Department are so many of them within the reach of everyone that the door of opportunity in this matter is wide open to all of us. To practice thrift in this manner is a virtue and brings great benefit to the individual at all times. With the despatic need of the civilized world today for materials and labor with which to end the war, the practice of individual thrift is a patriotic duty and a necessity.

MAKES APPEAL TO ALL.

"I appeal to all to buy new own Liberty Bonds or War Savings Stamps to continue to practice economy and thrift, and to appeal to all who do not own government securities to do likewise and purchase them to the extent of their means. The men who buys government securities transfers the purchasing power of his money to the United States government until after the war, and to that same degree does not bar in competition with the government.

"I earnestly appeal to every man, woman and child to pledge themselves on or before the twenty-eighth of June to save constantly and to buy as regularly as possible the securities of the government, and to do this as far as possible through membership in war savings societies. The twenty-eighth of June ends this special period of enlistment in the great volunteer army of production and savings here at home. May there be none unenlisted on that day."

LAWRENCE FACES 30,000 TON SHORTAGE IN COAL

Lawrence, May 30.—The Committee on Public Safety of this city learned for the first time that Lawrence will not get its required tonnage of coal and that during the coming Winter there will be a shortage of 30,000 tons, according to a report made by Richard Ward of the local fuel committee.

The situation is regarded with grave concern by the Public Safety Committee, which voted to call meetings of the heads of concerns, theatres, churches and other places which consume large quantities of coal.

The two committees will work jointly in a campaign to start at once, acquainting the general public with the alarming necessity of changing heating systems before the cold weather so that less coal will be needed.

"I won't, I won't," she shouted.

"They lied, oh God, you know they lied."

Deputies were ordered to take her from the court house by force if necessary.

But the woman, apparently gone mad, fought them every inch of the way.

As she was forced out of the building she added to her maledictions the name of Dr. Rohgers.

"Oh, they lied and Dr. Roberts, poor wretch, he lied along with the rest of them."

And then the frail woman was picked up bodily and carried unconscious across the great green lawn lying between the court house and the jail and up into her little cell.

Physicians were hastily summoned and late into the night they worked over her.

When the jury announced that they had reached an agreement, there was only a small number of onlookers in the dimly lighted courtroom.

NEWS SPREADS LIKE WILDFIRE.

But the news spread like wildfire throughout the city, and by the time Judge Martin Lueck arrived at the courthouse, coming from the Elks Club, where he had been in readiness for a call, the courtroom was crowded.

Dr. A. H. Lusk, father of the school teacher, sat within the bar railing with his eyes glued upon the jury room door for nearly two hours before the men filed into the box and the foreman handed the written verdict to the clerk.

The court room scenes attending the closing hours of the trial will never be forgotten by those present. Time after time the frail defendant, scarcely the shadow of herself during the first week of the trial, collapsed. She heard Attorney Clancy plead for compassion and mercy. Her eyes brightened a bit as he continued his assault upon Dr. Roberts as the "serpent" responsible for the tragedy.

But when in his final plea, purged time and again with the insanity of the defendant as the only legal excuse for her act, she shrank back in her chair, and a look of horror came over her face as she realized that the best she had to expect from those twelve men was a verdict which would confine her behind the walls of a mad house.

But her suffering was nothing to the soul chill through which she passed as she heard the prosecutor brand her a cold-blooded murderess in his argument.

PLEADS FOR SYMPATHY.

Attorney Clancy, for the defense, in his summary of the evidence, pleaded for compassion and sympathy and asked that justice be done the defendant after consideration of the evidence. He once more emphasized the proof of insanity and closed with these words:

"Who among you twelve men will prepare the poisoned hemlock for this child, and who among you will place the poisoned asp upon her arm?"

Special Prosecutor Corrigan commenced the State's final plea at once. He declared he regretted that it was his duty in this pathetic case, to insist that society be protected from crime. "I do not want any verdict from the jury for the sake of mere victory. I only want that which justice and fairness demands," he said.

"In answering the closing appeal of Mr. Clancy, I might inquire of you twelve men, who among you will forget the little green grave, and the little tombstone, beneath which lies the body of an innocent woman, whose character even counsel for the defence has extolled."

He reviewed the history of the crime, and declared that the evidence proved conclusively that Grace Lusk killed Mrs. Roberts premeditately and with malice aforethought.

"The State maintains that the defendant went upstairs to get her revolver with the avowed purpose of killing Mrs. Roberts. She maintains that she went to get letters as proof of Dr. Roberts' infatuation for her, but the evidence shows that she left the letters untouched under her desk. There they were found after the tragedy. That proves murder in the first degree," said the prosecutor.

MALDEN TO CONDUCT OPEN-AIR MOVIE SHOW

Malden is to inaugurate a system of open air moving picture entertainments both for the children and adults. These are to be largely of a patriotic nature and will be accompanied by band concerts and other forms of entertainment. Dr. H. M. GREATER BOSTON VETERANS PAY TRIBUTE TO MEN WHO HAVE GONE

Greater Boston veterans in the heroic fellowship of the Grand Army of the Republic pay renewed tribute today to the memory of departed comrades.

The combined programs arranged by the many Grand Army posts of Boston and neighboring communities form a wealth of Memorial Day observances, commensurate to the large part these cities and town played when the men were needed to preserve the Union.

Winchester Comrades Escorted to Cemetery by Sons of Veterans

Members of A. D. Weld Post 148, G. A. R. of Winchester met this afternoon at Town Hall, and were escorted to Wildwood cemetery by the Sons of Veterans and the State Guard of Winchester. Exercises were held at the cemetery, closing with "The Star Spangled Banner."

Squad From Home Guard Fire a Volley Over Graves at Dedham

Charles W. Carroll Post of Dedham, John Bronson commander, formed at the post headquarters on High street and escorted by a band, Sons of Veterans, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and the Daughters of Veterans, marched to Village Cemetery, where graves were decorated. Rev. William T. Beale conducted the services and the Women's Relief Corps held services for the unknown dead.

A firing squad from Company F, Massachusetts State Guard, gave the salute. Similar services were held at the Brookdale Cemetery, where Rev. William H. Parker officiated.

Concord Post Places English Union Jack on Graves for Second Time in History

For the second time in history, Old Concord Post 189, G. A. R. today placed an English Union Jack, with flowers, on the graves of the British soldiers buried at the Old North Bridge, Concord. From the bridge flowers were strewn on the Concord River in memory of United States soldiers, who offered their lives in defense of the Union. Under the direction of Commander George M. Bowker, the four graves at the Massachusetts Reformatory at Concord junction, were decorated by school children.

After the exercises at the bridge the veterans went by automobile to Lincoln, where thirteen graves were decked. The post attended the memorial exercises of the school children in the Lincoln Town Hall, at which Commander Bowker spoke. The Lincoln Boy Scouts of America assisted the post in that town.

Returning to Concord, the post was entertained at luncheon in the Concord Unitarian Church. War songs were sung. A parade is scheduled for this afternoon, with Post Commander Andrew H. Maker as chief marshal. The roster includes First Regiment Heavy Artillery Band from Boston, Company I, 19th Infantry, Massachusetts State Guard; Middlesex School Cadets, Old Concord Post 189, G. A. R.; United Spanish War Veterans and three troops of Boy Scouts.

The procession will proceed to Sleepy Hollow Cemetery, where the post, assisted by the Spanish War Veterans, will decorate 127 Civil War graves. Graves will also be decorated by the post at St. Bernard's Cemetery. Returning to the Soldiers' Monument, the rollcall of both the living and dead of the post and Spanish War Veterans will be read, after which a hollow square will be formed about the Liberty Pole in Monument square. As the flag is lowered, the band will play the "Star Spangled Banner," concluding the exercises. The post will be entertained at a bivouac supper at the State Armory by the State Guard.

Old Concord Post 189, G. A. R., was formed in November, 1884. There are only eighteen members living.

The post has twice been burned out of its headquarters and the charter lost. Commander George M. Bowker, who is now serving his seventh term in that office, is making out a new charter, which he hopes to complete before long.

Only Ninety-Seven Now Left on Membership Roll of Kinsley Post

Willard C. Kinsley Post No. 139, of Somerville, Commander Augustus W. Fix, today paid tribute to departed comrades. During the last year sixteen members of the post have passed away, leaving only ninety-seven of the 628 members.

The veterans met at their headquarters in the library on Central Hill, where they formed for parade. Spanish War veterans, Sons of Veterans, boys and girls from the high school, boy and girl scouts and two companies of the State Guard fell in line behind Commander Fix.

The parade came to a halt at the monument on Central Hill, where Mayor Eldridge addressed the gathering. The Somerville Military Band played national airs.

The evening services will take place at the High School Auditorium. Mrs. Mary E. Knowles will give Lincoln's Getsburg address, and Commander Augustus Fix will speak. Fred E. Warren will be the orator. After the oration the Roll of Honor will be read.

The Willard C. Kinsley Post was organized on August 17, 1870.

The post has had as members four Mayors of the city, G. O. Brastow, J. A. Cummings, G. A. Bruce and William H. Hodgkins.

10 Additional Graves Decked This Year by Gen. Lander Post of Lynn

Members of General Lander Post 2, G. A. R., of Lynn placed flags and flowers on ten additional graves today, that number of the comrades having passed away since this loving task was last performed. The post will conduct exercises in Park Theatre this evening.

The officers are: Emery E. Larrabee, commander; George H. Waite, senior vice-commander; George W. Durrill, junior vice-commander; John Anderson, adjutant; Alexander Wright, quartermaster; W. Marshall Wires, surgeon; Charles H. Gilman, officer of the day; James Norman, officer of the guard; Charles M. Sprague, patriotic instructor; Augustine Upton, sergeant-major, and John Chamberlain, quartermaster-sergeant.

General Lander Post was organized Feb. 27, 1867, with George W. Wilson, commander; William H. Medden, adjutant; Gardner Morse, quartermaster; Charles T. Clark, senior vice-commander; James Fits, chaplain; Cyrus A. Chadwell, officer of the day; David Walker, junior vice-commander, and T. Otis Willey, officer of the guard.

There were ten charter members, of whom the three living are T. Otis Willey, Cyrus A. Chadwell, and David Walker. The largest number of members recorded was on June 30, 1888, when the names of 1,123 appeared on the roster.

Singing Chorus of Men, All Over 70, to Help at Melrose Exercises

U. S. Grant Post No. 4, G. A. R., of Melrose, Rufus D. Kilgore, commander, held observances today, decorating graves at Wyoming Cemetery, after a parade. In the evening exercises will be held in Memorial Hall.

The post was one of the earliest to be formed in this State, and has been one of the most active. Two former commanders were advanced to high rank in national G. A. R. circles.

The post today has an excellent chorus, composed of members, all of whom are seventy years of age. This chorus will sing at the evening exercises.

All of the military and uniformed organizations in the city assisted in the parade, which formed at 9 o'clock a. m.

This evening Rev. P. M. McDevitt of the Melrose First Baptist Church, who spent several months as chaplain at a southern army cantonment, will make the principal address.

MEMORIAL DAY--1918

(To the Boys Who Have Died Over There)

By NICK FLATLEY

No banner bedecks your bit of earth,
No strains of music play,
Nor flowers bloom o'er your nameless tomb,
In the sighing winds of May.
But yours is the glory that never fades
And your fame is not of a day;
We "pledge" your death with every breath
For ever and for aye.

The RED of the courage that filled your heart,
The WHITE of the soul you gave,
The BLUE of the sky that watched you die
Honor your lonely grave.

Gen. E. W. Hinks Post of Saugus Will Have Church Service Tonight

Gen. E. W. Hinks Post of Saugus held Memorial Day exercises this afternoon at Riverside Cemetery. There will be a service at Saugus Center M. E. Church tonight.

The post was organized June 25, 1869, and had at that time nearly 300 members. There are now fewer than forty. The officers are James F. Pratt, commander; John E. Stocker, adjutant, and John S. Smith, quartermaster.

Swampscott Comrades Accompanied by Scouts and Sons of Veterans

Gen. James L. Bates Post 118, G. A. R., of Swampscott paraded with Sons of Veterans, Boy Scouts, and school children today, after which prayer was offered in the Town Hall by Rev. Edward Tillotson.

The post was organized Feb. 3, 1870, and before the end of the following year had 150 members. At present there are thirty members. The present officers are John R. Marritt, commander; John J. Putnam, chaplain, and Peleg Gardner, adjutant.

Paul Revere Post of Quincy Pays Visit To Several Cemeteries

Veterans of Paul Revere Post 83, Quincy, assembled at G. A. R. Hall in uniform and several details proceeded to several cemeteries, where graves were decorated. Officers and members of the Sons of Veterans, Spanish War Veterans, Women's Relief Corps, Daughters of Veterans and auxiliaries assisted in the memorial services.

Under orders of John D. Williams Post, Commander Gershom B. Thomas, a detail paraded to Mount Auburn Cemetery, where the graves of Paul J. Revere and Samuel W. Spear were decorated with wreaths and cut flowers. Another detail, under the command of Senior Vice-Commander Thomas Ring, accompanied by the Rev. Bancroft V. Hisbee, captain of the day, visited the National Sailors' Home and deposited flags on the graves of several departed heroes.

Junior Vice-Commander Andrew Gilman, with a detail of veterans and a delegation of Sons of Veterans, marched to Mount Wollaston Cemetery, while Quartermaster-Sergeant Joseph A. Lapham proceeded to West Quincy and placed flowers on the graves of their comrades in Hall and St. Marys cemeteries. Services were held at the Willard Monument.

Later St. Mary's Cemetery was visited. There was an address by Thomas R. McCoy.

Gould Post of Stoneham Will Hold Exercises in The Armory This Evening

J. P. Gould Post 75, G. A. R., of Stoneham, paraded through Stoneham Centre accompanied by Sons of Veterans, the High School Cadets, Spanish War Veterans, Boy Scouts of America and the Girl Scouts. The graves at Lindenwood Cemetery were decorated. There will be patriotic exercises in the evening at the Stoneham Armory.

McCALL LINKS HEROES OF PAST AND PRESENT

Governor Honors Men Who Saved the Union and Men Now Fighting for Civilization

Governor McCall lays stress upon the double meaning of this Memorial Day, when we honor those who saved the Union in the Civil War and those who are fighting now for civilization.

By SAMUEL W. McCALL,
Governor of Massachusetts.

It just happens that I am Governor of the Commonwealth at a time when we are at war, as during the Civil War John A. Andrew was Governor. The burdens which the war put upon him of representing the Commonwealth in raising and distributing her allotment in the great armies which fought for the union were very heavy ones.

During the first year of the war there were sent from the Commonwealth about 40,000 men, and that was nearly the average for the four years of its continuance. During the first year of our war with Germany there were indicted into the military and naval service of the country about 90,000 men.

New England fifty years ago was nearly self supporting. Her farms raised nearly food enough to feed her, and the wood from her forests kept her people warm, her railroads running, and with her water courses supplied power for her factories. Today we raise only a small portion of the food we eat, and we consume in our factories and homes and upon our railroads about 20,000,000 tons of coal each year in Massachusetts alone.

These conditions make a comparison between the administrative end of the Commonwealth during this war and the Civil War impossible. The conditions we face today are vastly different.

There is one thing that we have in common, however, and that is our patriotism. As the young men of '61-'65 answered the call of the President, so have our young men of '17 and '18 responded to the President's call. They are actuated by the same feelings; they are entering into the contest with the same determined spirit and will only the one thought—that of victory obtained only with such methods as will make them wholly worthy of it.

As we were proud and are proud of the boys of the Civil War, so are we proud of the boys now in the service in the war with Germany. Memorial Day has always meant much to us, but this Memorial Day takes on a double meaning because we are not only honoring those who preserved the Union, but also those who are struggling to preserve civilization.

Woburn Organizations Combine for Exercises; Prayer Offered on Common

Members of Post 38 and Post 161 of Woburn combined for memorial Day exercises. The posts met on the Common where prayers were offered by Rev. Luther L. Weller of Trinity Church. The veterans went to Woodbrook and Calvary cemeteries, where the comrades graves were decorated. Dinner was served by the Relief Corps of the posts in their respective halls.

SPIRIT OF '61 WITH ARMY TODAY

Ideals That Once Made Boys Heroes Still With the Young Men

The loyalty and sacrifices of the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic are extolled as sources of inspiration to youth in today's world crisis in the following statement by one of the leading comrades of the State:

By PHILIP A. NORDELL,
Assistant Adjutant-General, Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R.

Humanity is essentially the same in every age. Every great crisis calls out essentially the same virtues. Before our country had been drawn into the present world conflict, there were many who feared lest the young men of today might not respond to the country's call with the same alacrity and enthusiasm as did the boys of '61 to '65. The fear was groundless. The same high ideals that lighted the path of duty then, lighten it still. The same spirit of loyal, self-forgetting service that made the every-day boy a hero then is transforming into heroes the boys of today.

May we not believe that the present outburst of devotion to the flag is due in some measure to the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic who, during all these intervening years, have exemplified in their own persons and by their words that sacrificial spirit which more than fifty years ago kept the flag unsullied by the stain of treason?

The boys in khaki who fought to preserve the Union had no adequate vision of the splendid national destiny for which their victories were preparing the way. The boys in khaki realize hazily the significance of the struggle in which they are engaged. When this wars over, this world can never be the same world it was before. We stand on the threshold of a new social order. To have a part in this service will be worth all it costs.

Sheridan Post Veterans of Salem Dedicate Many Graves

Many graves were decorated by members of Phil H. Sheridan Post 24, G. A. R., of Salem. Visits were made to the soldiers' lots in Harmony Grove, Greenlawn and St. Mary's cemeteries. School children assisted the old soldiers in their loving task. This afternoon the veterans visited Greenlawn Cemetery, accompanied by members of the city government, and escorted by delegations from several military and civic organizations.

The post was organized December 10, 1867, and named after the dashing cavalry officer whose name it bears. On Feb. 2, 1918, he visited the post and presented an autographed picture of himself to it. There are now 140 members in the post. At one time it had 500.

men, are moved by this thought! "These are the men who, in their youth, fought and won for their country, which is our country. As they did, so shall we do."

The meaning of the day is impressed upon the children in such apt phrases as shall sow the seeds of patriotism in their receptive minds.

Those children grown a years and more full realization of Memorial Day, the idea of tribute to the men of the Grand Army of the Republic served by Lesabeth A. Turner Tent 36, Daughters of Veterans. The exercises held by this post included addresses by Commander James E. Smith, Chaplain Joseph G. Irons and Adjutant John J. Sheehan. The exercises closed with the singing of America by comrades and guests.

John A. Andrew Post 15 is one of the best known and now one of the largest in the State. It has 125 members, having lost twenty-three by death last year. The post was organized August 6, 1867, with well-known veterans, including Colonel J. Waldo Denny, who afterwards became a founder of Kinsley Post, as charter members.

The armed battalion marches on occasions of ceremony, equipped as a dismounted cavalry. Albert Pfismeyer has the distinction of being one of the oldest G. A. R. quartermasters in the country. He has held that position in the post continuously for thirty-two years. He has attended every Grand Army encampment.

Mount Auburn Cemetery Visited by Comrades of John A. Andrew Post 15

John A. Andrew Post 15 assembled at No. 1,151 Washington street and took special cars to Mount Auburn Cemetery. The comrades were met by a detail of Boy Scouts, who assisted in decorating graves. Later they returned to their headquarters in special cars and a luncheon was served by Lesabeth A. Turner Tent

Edward W. Kinsley Post Holds Services in Hall of Flags at State House

Edward W. Kingsley Post 113 has for years held its annual exercises in Tremont Temple, but this year they were changed to Ford Hall.

The members assembled at Kinsley Hall, Ford Building, at 9 a. m. Half an hour later the line formed on Ashburton place. After marching to the State House, where exercises were held in the Hall of Flags, the column proceeded to the Soldiers and Sailors' Monument on the Common. In the exercises in Ford Hall Master James M. Curley, Jr., recited Lincoln's Gettysburg address and Robert Luce delivered an oration.

Kinsley Post has frequently been referred to as the officers' post. Until 1900 the membership was limited to 113 and none but an officer was admitted. At one time half of the members were also members of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion. The post was founded in 1869.

Hopes and Fears Are with Crusaders, Says Daniels

By JOSEPHUS DANIELS, Secretary of the Navy.

MEMORIAL DAY, bringing us again enriched consecration in the cause of freedom for all peoples, this year is an occasion for renewed prayer that the nation's sacred purpose may ever prevail. Our men on land and sea are freely offering their lives in the cause their fathers sustained.

This year our hopes and fears are bound up in the crusaders who have gone from our homes to aid their brothers in arms in the great battle for the preservation of civilization. Our national memorial service to the soldiers who have died never was more significant of our belief in the ideals they sustained than in this year.

Nathaniel Bowditch Camp, Sons of Veterans, Helps Benjamin Stone Post

Benjamin Stone, Jr., Post 88, G. A. R., in its Memorial Day services was assisted by Nathaniel Bowditch Camp, No. 30, Sons of Veterans, Mrs. John A. Andrew Tent 1, Daughters of Veterans, and the Benjamin Stone, Jr., Women's Relief Corps.

Fifty years ago the Grand Army veterans of Dorchester, 600 strong, formed the post, and opened its present headquarters in Park street, Dorchester. The fiftieth anniversary will be celebrated in October, and it is the hope that the eighty-four veterans now making up the post will enjoy the anniversary.

Daniel L. Weymouth is commander and very active.

The principal exercises took place at Cedar Grove Cemetery, where the Grand Army ritual was read. The oration was delivered by Rev. George H. Spencer, pastor of Greenwood Memorial Church.

Twelve hundred graves of the departed veterans have been decorated in the cemeteries of Dorchester, and special services were held in each one, as well as at the soldiers' monument, Meeting House Hill, which bears the names of the Dorchester men who gave their lives.

Kearsarge Veterans Hold Exercises on the Common

The Kearsarge Naval Veterans met at their hall in Washington street at 10 o'clock, and at 10:30 marched to the Common, where exercises were held. These began with prayer by the chaplain, and were featured by the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "The Vacant Chair" by the band.

After the exercises the organization marched to Odd Fellows' Hall, Tremont and Berkley streets, for addresses and other indoor observances of the day. The speakers were members of the association, among them Miss Barry, an officer of the Ladies' Auxiliary, who has been prominent in Red Cross work.

The graves of departed members have already been decorated, this having been done last Saturday and Sunday. The members in Odd Fellows' Hall, therefore, closed the observance of the day for the association as a body. The commander of the Kearsarge Naval Veterans is Ben Houghton, for many years a member of the old Boston police department and now a private detective.

Daughters of Veterans Join in the Ceremonies of Jamaica Plain Post

Boston Post 200, G. A. R., of Jamaica Plain held services, after which the cemeteries were visited. Acting Commander William G. Whitney was in charge.

The veterans assembled at headquarters and then proceeded to Forest Hills, Mt. Hope, Woodlawn and other cemeteries. Exercises were held at the Soldiers' Monument in Eliot Square, at which the Daughters of Veterans took part. At the First M. E. Church, Elm and Newbern streets, an address was delivered by the Rev. Leon H. Austin, pastor of the Roslindale Congregational Church. The escort included the Sons of Veterans, Daughters of Veterans, Women's Relief Corps and a company of the State Guard.

Sons and Daughters Accompany Hyde Park Veterans on Parade

In Hyde Park services were held by Timothy Ingraham Post, of which Robert L. Frampton is the commander and Edwin J. Chandler adjutant.

The comrades reported at 8:15 a. m. at post headquarters, Liberty Hall, in full uniform. At 9 o'clock the post, headed by the Dedham Band, escorted by Sylvanus Cobb, Jr., Camp, S. of V., and accompanied by post associates, Spanish War Veterans and Daughters of Veterans, marched on River street to Gordon avenue, where the G. A. R. veterans were taken in automobiles to Fairview Cemetery, where the services were conducted, after which the comrades returned in automobiles to Gordon avenue to Library Hall, where a collation was served by the Woman's Relief Corps.

A detail from the post was sent to Mount Hope, Forest Hills, Cedar Grove and Calvary cemeteries to decorate graves.

Sixteen Out of the 17 in Milton Post Take Part in Solemn Exercises

Sixteen of the seventeen members took part in services of Huntington Frothingham Wolcott Post No. 102 of Milton which opened with a parade in the morning with exercises in the Milton Town Hall in charge of Commander Nathaniel S. Barry.

Quartermaster Jedediah Strangman was marshal. In line were thirty sailors from Bunkin Island, Hingham, with the Naval School Band; Col. Oliver W. Peabody Camp No. 74, Sons of Veterans; Daughters of Veterans, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts of Milton. After exercises in the Town Hall a flag was raised outside the hall. The line was again taken up and proceeded to the Milton Cemetery, where 120 graves were decorated. A salute was fired by the Sons of Veterans Camp, and services were conducted at the grave of Colonel Peabody, for whom the Sons of Veterans Camp is named. A wreath from Everett Peabody Post of Georgetown was placed on the grave.

Through the courtesy of Selectman J. Arthur Turner of Milton, automobiles were furnished the veterans, the expense being paid personally by Mr. Turner.

At the close of the service at the cemetery a dinner was served in the Town Hall by the Women's Relief Corps, Mrs. A. L. Horckery, chairman.

Spanish War Veterans And Home Guard Escort '61 Soldiers on Tour

Charles Lyon Chandler Post No. 113 of Brookline met at headquarters in the Town Hall at 8 a. m., later going to the Walnut Hills Cemetery.

They returned to the headquarters and at 1 o'clock, under escort of Company D, 11th Regiment, M. S. G., Co. B, Brookline Home Guard; Company No. 27, U. S. W. V., and a delegation of Brookline Lodge, B. P. O. E., and a band, proceeded to the soldiers' monument at the library grounds and after decorating it an address was delivered by Asst. Adjt.-General Philip A. Nordell.

Later at Brookline Cemetery the graves of soldiers of the Revolutionary and Civil wars were decorated. Here an address was delivered by Comrade Castelly O. Norcross. At Holyhood Cemetery graves were decorated and an address was delivered by Past Commander Augustus B. Lovett. Past Commander William W. O'Connell read Lincoln's Address at each of the exercises.

The comrades and escort, in command of Commander Albert W. Bright, returned to the post headquarters where a collation was served at which Comrade Nordell was master of ceremonies. Selectman Burton W. Neal was a speaker.

Eleven Veterans Take to Autos for the First Time in Annual Parade

James A. Perkins Post of Everett observed the day in the customary manner, except that eleven of the veterans this year for the first time rode in autos in the parade instead of marching.

The parade formed at 8:30 a. m., following a prayer by Rev. A. A. Pitman at Grand Army Hall. They then marched to Glenwood cemetery, where exercises were held at the monument. Military and uniformed bodies of the city participated.

This evening at 8 o'clock in the high school hall, a patriotic program of music and addresses will be given, with an address by Commander George A. Parsons and an oration by Rev. F. L. Sanford. Lincoln's Gettysburg address will be given by Master Alfred E. Grant, grandson of one of the veterans.

Last Sunday the post decorated graves of comrades in Mt. Auburn, Woodlawn and Pine Grove cemeteries.

The post now has a membership of seventy members. It was named in honor of Captain James E. Perkins, who was killed in the war serving with a Massachusetts regiment. His grave in Mt. Auburn cemetery was decorated by members of the post.

Members of Malden Post Turn Out Early to Honor Hero Graves

Hiram G. Berry Post 60, G. A. R., of Malden, Charles W. Bennett commander, assembled at 7 a. m. at Grand Army Hall. At 7:15 a delegation visited the historic Salem Street cemetery and another delegation visited St. Mary's cemetery. At 8 o'clock they returned to the hall and at 8:15 the column was formed for the march to Forest Dale cemetery. Members of the post were accompanied by the city government, all of the patriotic orders and the Home and State Guard units, Spanish War Veterans, Boy Scouts and similar organizations.

This evening members of the post will attend exercises in the Centre Methodist Church, at which the pastor, Rev. Archie D. Hall, will give the address.

The post derives its name from Major General Hiram G. Berry, who served in the Civil War.

Reading of Gettysburg Address in Ceremonies of Francis Washburn Post

Scores of the graves of G. A. R. heroes were decorated by Francis Washburn Post No. 92, G. A. R., in many cemeteries in Greater Boston.

The veterans assembled at headquarters in the old Brighton town hall and proceeded to Evergreen cemetery, Brighton, where the exercises opened with "America," after which Chaplain Samuel H. Mitchenn offered prayer.

The reading of the orders was by Adjutant Jr Francis Chickey, and then Guy Bacon, a member of Camp No. 88, Sons of Veterans, delivered Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg. Commander John Welsh delivered an address and Adjt. Chickey gave the roll call, after which the more than 100 graves on the soldiers' lot were decorated. Rev. Dr. William Allen Knight, pastor of the Brighton Congregational Church, closed the program with benediction.

Charles Russell Lowell Post Decorates Graves in Mount Hope Cemetery

Comrades of the Charles Russell Lowell Post assembled at its headquarters and, accompanied by its auxiliary W. R. C., proceeded to Mt. Hope cemetery, where exercises were held and 668 graves decorated with flowers provided by the W. R. C. Later Calvary cemetery was visited and a similar ceremony performed.

Charles Russell Lowell Post, founded in 1867, was the first one established in Suffolk County. Its first meeting place was in the old Boylston Bank building at the corner of Essex and Washington street. Colonel W. W. Bulloch was the first commander, and he was succeeded by H. J. Hallgren and W. H. Gundy.

The commander of the post, Charles O. Nemell, had a remarkable history during the war. He enlisted when he as fifteen years old in the 20th Massachusetts Regiment in August, 1861, and served until July, 1865. He was in many of the great battles, including Gettysburg.

Memorial Day Has New Sacredness, Asserts Baker

By NEWTON D. BAKER, Secretary of War.

TO those who have seen France, ravaged by war, Memorial Day assumes a new sacredness. With full knowledge of the great costs that final victory for liberty exacts, our people gather this year to glorify those who have given their all in civilization's holiest cause.

Calm in the knowledge that the young manhood of the nation again offers itself a living bulwark against the hideous menace of autocracy, the American nation this year gathers at the graves of her fallen heroes imbued with the faith that the cause of liberty must and will prevail.

Entire Nation Today Kneels for Its Dead, Says Mayor Peters

Mayor Peters pictures Memorial Day as a time when the nation "kneels for its dead" — its sums up the meaning of today thus:

By ANDREW J. PETERS, Mayor of Boston.

Memorial Day—a time when the nation kneels for its dead. Our defenders have gone to their reward. A flag fluttering over their graves is the nation's tribute to their memory—a simple ceremony, but majestic in its meaning.

A nation bows in reverence to the brave men who faced the horrors of war that we might live. To wander among the graves of our dead is a consolation. At least we are near them. In the past year, however, many of our youths have given the supreme sacrifice. They sleep beneath the sod of a foreign land or under the rolling deep. We shall forget them. The memory is which we hold them is everlasting.

In tenderest devotion the nation offers to their families its sympathy. In the hour of their bereavement the honor of their homes is high. A son has been decorated "the bravest among the brave"—he died for his country.

Unknown Naval Dead Honored by Strewing of Flowers on Water

One of the most picturesque of the Memorial Day observances was gone through by members of Dahlgren Post No. 2 of South Boston, with the scattering of flowers on the water at Marine Park in honor of the unknown naval dead. The ceremony was performed by the W. R. C. auxiliary of the post.

Past Commander Benjamin A. Hasm of the Dahlgren Post, No. 2, G. A. R., and one of the five councillors of administration of the Massachusetts Department, president of the G. A. R. Memorial Building Association, recalling the G. A. R. services this year said:

"This year Memorial Day has a far greater significance than ever before in the history of our country, for now there are many newly made graves and sorrow is deeply seated in the hearts since the present war in the cause of humanity began and this country has taken an active part.

Rub-rub-rub—fabrics had to be strong to stand being washed with cake soap

The result of years ago

The sheer linen of today
Washed the modern way—the Lux way—pure suds and no rubbing

Modern materials won't stand the old way of washing

REMEMBER the clothes women wore only a few years ago? Sturdy wash waists, heavy enough to stand hard washings. Or else dark silks and plaids that were never tubbed at all! Muslin underwear. "Dark" petticoats. Cotton and lisle hosiery.

Today, look at the materials women wear! Handkerchief linen, Crepe de Chine, Georgette Crepe, Chiffon cloth. Dainty colorings. Shimmering textures. Silk and lace underwear. Fine silk hosiery. The daintier the better.

The old-fashioned rub-rub-rub

For the apparel worn years ago the old way of washing answered the purpose. You rubbed the cake of soap directly on the garments—and rubbed hard. Sometimes you even rubbed over a washboard. You rubbed out the soap and you twisted and wrung out the garments.

Cruel! You shudder at the very words. Such treatment for the delicate, sheer garments of today would be a crime.

Now there's a better way—the Lux way, that keeps the daintiest things new—creamses them tenderly with never a bit of rubbing

How to wash silk blouses

Whisk a tablespoonful of Lux into a thick lather in half a basinful of boiling or very hot water. Add cold water till lukewarm. Dip your blouse through the lather many times. Squeeze the suds through it—do not rub. Rinse in three waters of the same temperature as the water in which you washed it. Squeeze the water out—do not wring. Dry in the shade. When nearly dry, iron with a warm iron—never a hot one. Georgette Crepe blouses should be gently pulled into shape as they dry and stay should be shaped as they are ironed.

You can use Lux for anything that water alone won't injure!

Lux comes in light, transparent, fluffy, white flakes. It is different from anything you have ever used.

The modern form of soap

You don't have to rub the garments when you use Lux. You simply dip your blouse up and down in the rich, warm suds, squeezing the suds again and again through the fabric. Then the rinsing. In the old way, no matter how carefully you rinsed, tiny particles of cake soap you had rubbed into the fabric usually clung to it. These little particles weakened and yellowed the fabric.

But Lux dissolves so absolutely that you are sure three rinsings of clear lukewarm water will carry every trace of soap out of the fabric.

You lift your blouse out. It's spotlessly, surprisingly clean. You are truly amazed—it's so easy, so quick, so simple.

Just get a package of Lux today at your grocer's, druggist's, or department store. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

ALL NEW ENGLAND JOINS IN MEMORIAL TO ITS SOLDIER DEAD

MARK GRAVES OF HEROES IN NATION'S WARS

Massachusetts and her sister States in the heroic New England group are in the forefront today of the nation-wide observance of this Memorial Day, so deeply significant of heroism of the elders and so inspiring to our warrior youth.

Twenty-Two Posts Take Part in the Day's Services Throughout Rhode Island

Providence, May 30.—Twenty-two G. A. R. posts throughout Rhode Island, representing 809 veterans, participated in Memorial Day services today. About half the membership turned out to honor their dead comrades, who fought to preserve the Union in the stormy days of the Civil War. Each commander issued orders more in the nature of requests, importuning every veteran to participate. The six posts in this city participated in the mammoth celebration here.

Extraordinary efforts were made to care for the veterans who are unable to parade. Carriages were provided to convey the veterans.

Services at the soldiers' monument at City Hall square were conducted this morning. Prayer was offered at the monument of Henry H. Young, a scout famous during the Civil War, after a short parade through the main streets.

The veterans then went to different cemeteries, where services were held.

The six posts in this city represent a membership as follows: Prescott, 120; Slocum, 118; George H. Brown, 78; Rodman, 87; Iver (colored), 12, and Arnold, 26. A number of the posts throughout the State lack a quorum. The Centrealia Veteran Association, the post at North Providence, is being held together by three veterans, Charles R. Brown, William Allen and Joseph Naylor. The citizens of North Providence paid tribute to the trio of veterans in a program never equalled in the history of the town.

The official program follows:

Platoon of police.

First division, Independent Chartered Companies and Rhode Island militia.

Second division, Rhode Island Boy Scouts.

Third division, United Spanish War Veterans, American Veterans of Spanish War.

Fourth division, Sons of Veterans of U. S. A.

Sixth division (devoted exclusively to G. A. R.). Department Commander Murdock C. McKenzie, department officers and staff, past department commanders; officers of the U. S. army and navy; United States army and navy recruiting details.

Pawtucket Veterans Parade Streets After Services at the Graves of Comrades

Pawtucket, May 30.—"All honor" to the G. A. R." was the keynote of the celebration here today when the surviving sixty-three members of Tower Post paid tribute to their departed comrades by casting flowers over the Main street bridge in memory of departed soldiers and sailors of the Civil War, thence to Winterson Park, where the flag was saluted with great solemnity, and concluding with impressive services at Mineral Spring avenue park for the "unknown dead." The veterans were conveyed to the

Holy Day, Says Senior Vice-Commander in Bay State

Briefly but eloquently the senior vice-commander of the Bay State Department expresses the Memorial Day meaning as follows:

By GEORGE W. WILDER

Of Boston, Senior Vice-Commander, Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R.

Year after year Memorial Day comes and goes, with all its sacred rites in memory of our honored dead. It is a holy day, ever to live. A sad pleasure we cherish more and more as Time speeds on taking his toll. Soon all will be enrolled—an honor roll. The book closes, but the day lives—an immortal day to commemorate the nation's dead.

G. A. R. headquarters on Exchange street, where willing auxiliary workers provided lunch and refreshments, during which a general discussion of war times in "61" was indulged in.

Members of the Sons of Veterans and Veterans of the Spanish War acted as escorts during the parade which passed through the principal streets lined with young and old all eager to pay their respects to the remaining members of the post.

The veterans in line answered the applause along the line with smiles and doffing of hats.

Commander Gasper A. Partridge of Tower Post and officers of the Post were conveyed in automobiles. Not that many of the veterans were unable to walk, that was not the spirit of ceremony, but Commander Partridge and Adjutant William Massey felt that the "boys" would enjoy the ride along the line of march. Adjutant William Massey is known as the father of Tower Post and is the ranking officer in Pawtucket owing to his position as Junior Vice-Commander of the Department of Rhode Island. Mr. Massey said:

"The boys left with us, which are sixty-three at present, conserved their energies for today's services, and while some of them will be missing at the next Memorial celebration, they did splendidly today. I can recall when we had 400 veterans in Tower Post. When we get down to sixty-three, it shows that time is doing its work among the old fellows.

"The government is making our remaining days pleasant and we have no kick. We also appreciate the efforts of the people in not forgetting the old boys who did their part when the call came. I have a son in the service and wrote him saying that I am proud of him. If I had a dozen sons I would expect them to rally around the flag as their dad did when he was eighteen years old."

Farewells Today Call Up Civil War Days to Fall River Veteran

Fall River, May 30.—Dr. John Gilbert, for more than thirty-five years a member of Richard Borden Post, G. A. R., and who was elected medical director for the Department of Massachusetts for three consecutive terms, said today:

"I am sorry I cannot be with the boys who are across or on their way over to France today. The parades, the leave-takings, the breaking away from loved ones at the front all take me back to the days of '61 and '65. It was the same thing then and I'd like to be with the boys today, but as I wanted to be with them in those days.

"Memorial Day this year has a greater significance for the veterans of '61 than ever before. They see that our boys God-speed as they go against the enemy of civilization. They know them and we know that they will make good with a vengeance."

Dr. Gilbert, a native of England, came to this country in youth. He enlisted in the Twenty-first Massachusetts Volunteers and served in that command through the Civil War. He is now one of the most active workers here for the boys in the National Army.

Children Take a Leading Part in Program of Brooks Post, at Montpelier, Vt.

Montpelier, Vt., May 30.—Following the decoration of graves in the local cemeteries, members of Brooks Post, No. 12, G. A. R., went to City Hall accompanied by Sons of Veterans, Boy Scouts of America and Camp Fire Girls to take part in additional patriotic exercises. Rev. Fr. M. O'Donell of Randolph made the principal address. There was a musical program in which 100 children under Jesse E. Wheaton, organized and a drill and decoration by children in charge of Mrs. Mary Tower Post and is the ranking officer in Pawtucket owing to his position as Junior Vice-Commander of the Department of Rhode Island. Mr. Massey said:

"The boys left with us, which are sixty-three at present, conserved their energies for today's services, and while some of them will be missing at the next Memorial celebration, they did splendidly today. I can recall when we had 400 veterans in Tower Post. When we get down to sixty-three, it shows that time is

VALLEY FORGE SPIRIT STILL LIVES

Bronze Button Stands for Liberty and Freedom in Whole Land

Horace Goodwin of Westfield, junior vice-commander, Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R., sends a message of courage and good cheer to "Our Boys" in France. His message reads:

The Veterans of 1861 to 1865, not forgetting the great cause for which they did so well their part, send greetings to our army across the great waters with a message of good cheer.

Out of a great inheritance we did our duty and saved a great republic. It's yours to make the world safe for democracy. The spirit of Washington and of Lincoln are incarnate in every American heart. What Valley Forge helped to give us we transmit to you.

From a united country the message is: "Save the world for humanity. Make freemen of all peoples."

"Love God and do your duty" are the words on every watch-tower in America. Every American heart throbs as 'rus as steal for freedom. The ...itle bronze button speaks through us for liberty in our own land. Your badge of honor shall be for the entire world.

You need courage. We strengthen your hearts by having shown ours in the past. Yours is the hard work of war and you need comforts and blessings. We work in the spirit of the Man of Nazareth, with the Y. M. C. A., with the Red Cross, with the K. of C.

We are traveling toward the western slope of life. But we buy Liberty bonds with our savings because we are freemen and because we love the dear old flag for which we fought and for which our comrades died.

Be of good cheer, boys. We will "keep the home fires burning."

Squad of Seamen Fires Three Volleys Over Graves of Veterans at Newport, R. I.

Newport, R. I., May 30.—For the first time in many years three volleys were fired here today over the graves of the men who wore the Union Blue during the Civil War. The firing squad consisted of a company of apprentice seamen from the Newport Naval Training Station. They went to Island, St. Mary's and Old Braman cemeteries with members of Lawton-Warren Post, G. A. R. Others accompanying the veterans were the Spanish War Veterans and Boy Scouts of America. At the conclusion of the cemetery exercises there was a service in the First Presbyterian Church. That was followed by a parade in which a regiment of United States regulars from Fort Adams and a large sprinkling of sailors participated.

Commander Jere I. Greene, in command of the line of march, had as his staff Col. Willam H. Vanderbilt, now in the naval reserves, and Quartermaster William J. Hog of Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas Camp, Spanish War Veterans. Members of Newport Artillery, the oldest active military organization in the United States, acted as special escort to the veterans. The Rogers and St. George's High School Cadets were out as well as many city officials and clergy.

After the ceremonies at the graves the veterans proceeded to the government landing to take part in the ceremonies there. They were met with flowers, in memory of the dead of the sea, by the Women's Relief Corps had charge.

Among the past post commanders are Gilbert H. Andrew, McMahan, John B. Mason, Dr. A. F. Squire and Jere I. Greene. Post Commander W. S. Bailey has held that office for twelve years altogether, but this last time for five years.

Children of Portsmouth, N. H., Assist Veterans in Casting Floral Tributes on the Sea

Portsmouth, N. H., May 30. — The pretty ceremony of casting flowers on the sea in memory of the dead was repeated again today by members of Storer Post, No. 1, G. A. R. Children and members of the Ladies Relief Corps participated with the veterans in strewing the flowers on the water. Many floral blossoms were thrown from South Mill bridge to the bosom of the ocean.

This afternoon the veterans march to South Cemetery to decorate graves. The companies of United States regulars from Forts Constitution, Stark and Foster, and two companies of United States Marines from the local navy yard will accompany the "Boys in Blue" in the parade. Others will include Camp Schley, Spanish-American War Veterans, Thomas A. Harris Camp Sons of Veterans, Boy Scouts of America, Portsmouth Lodge of Elks, army and navy officers and members of the city government.

The program includes prayer by Rev. Frank Tilton; music by Boutitle, reading of general orders by Adjutant M. H. Bell; recitation of Lincoln's Gettysburg address by Comrade True L. Norris and reading of John A. Logan's Order No. 2 by Adjutant M. H. Bell.

Storer Post was named after Rear Admiral George Washington Storer. It was organized November 8, 1867, with a charter list of ten members. The charter was surrendered in June, 1874, and the post was re-organized June 27, 1878, with twenty-nine members. Its first officers were commander, Matthew T. Sutton; adjutant, Edwin C. Tilton; quartermaster, Reuben Kimball.

Under the second charter the officers were: Commander James R. Morrison, Adjutant James E. Ford, Quartermaster John E. Locke.

On January 1, 1917, the Post had sixty-five members and has lost four comrades since last Memorial Day, George H. Howe, Ezekiel Fitzgerald, Michael Sheridan and Dennis H. Treichen.

In the several cemeteries of Portsmouth, New Castle, Rye, Newington, Greenland, 175 graves of the Honored Dead are decorated by the surviving members. The Post cherishes the records of four army nurses from this city who served the Union from '61 to '65—Miss Mary Appleton Foster, General Hospital, Fairfax Seminary, Va. and elsewhere; Miss Mary Lewis Israel served Armory Square General Hospital, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Mary T. Wilder, served General Hospital, Fort Monroe, Va.; Mrs. Marie L. Campbell, General Hospital.

Augusta Veterans Assisted by Sons of Veterans in Conducting Services of Day

Augusta, Me., May 30.—Graves of Civil War veterans in Riverside, Bolton Hill, East River road, Forest Grove, St. Mary's, Mt. Vernon and Mt. Pleasant cemeteries were decorated with flags and flowers today by members of Seth Williams Post, No. 12, G. A. R. Members of Henry G. Staples Camp, Sons of Veterans, assisted in the ceremonies. Other services were conducted in Monument Park later. The Memorial Day address was delivered in Penney Memorial Free Will Baptist Church by Rev. William R. Wood, pastor.

The officers of the post are: Commander, George E. Gay; senior vice-commander, Oliver P. Robbins; junior vice-commander, Alfred B. Perkins; chaplain, James W. White; adjutant, William McDavid; quartermaster, O. O. Stetson; surgeon, Otis W. Littlefield; officer of the day, Nathaniel W. White; officer of the guard, Edwin Hayes; patriotic instructor, James W. White.

Seth Williams Post, named in honor of General Seth Williams, adjutant-general of the Army of the Potomac, was organized July 26, 1873, with twenty-two charter members. Captain John D. Myrick was the first commander. Among the charter members were several well-known citizens of Augusta, including General Selden Connor, William B. Lapham, John D. Myrick, Franklin M. Drew, Samuel J. Gallagher and Charles E. Nash.

Seth Williams Post has had a membership from first to last of 418, the present membership being twenty-five. The post has always been one of the largest and most important in the State and has furnished three department commanders of the State G. A. R. in General Selden Connor, John D. Myrick and Captain Samuel W. Lane. The present commander of the post is George E. Gay.

ASKS MAINE TO GIVE UP FIREWORKS JULY 4

Augusta, Me., May 30.—C. Walden Smith of Portland, State insurance commissioner, today issued a statement in which he urged the absolute Statewide discontinuance of all forms and kinds of fireworks on the Fourth of July.

"Everything possible is being done and should be done at this especial period to conserve all the resources of the country; it is obviously necessary for the successful prosecution of the war," said Commissioner Smith.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring color, lustre and youthfulness to hair when faded, streaked or grey.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

ARMY AND NAVY AMERICAN

DEMOCRACY — BOSTON, THURSDAY, MAY 30, 1918. — LIBERTY

SPORTS TAKE UP THE DAY FOR SAILORS

By S. HARRY FERRIS.

Aboard the Receiving Ship at Boston, May 30.—Today is a holiday aboard the ship. All work, except a few necessary duties that cannot be neglected, is suspended, and a large number of the sailors are ashore on liberty leave.

The principal event of the day is the base ball game and the service races at Russell Field, Cambridge. The events are confined to the 100-yard and one-mile runs and the relay race.

The presence of the ship's band is a feature of the day's celebration at Marblehead. Bandmaster Samuel Brenner now has thirty musicians under his direction, and he has welded them into a band that compares favorably with any in the service. In the future members of all naval bands will wear the regular uniform of seamen instead of that of the Marine Corps.

The splendid work performed by the chaplain's office for the men of the ship has just been illustrated. One of the sailors received a telegram announcing the unexpected death of his mother in a distant city. The young man presented his case to the authorities and by wiring to the Bureau of Navigation at Washington they obtained permission for him to leave Boston for a few days. But it happened that at the time he was without funds. His shipmates were in a similar condition. In the emergency, someone made the sailor's plight known to the chaplain's office and a loan was immediately proffered.

This is only one of many instances of the helpful assistance given by the chaplain's forces. Owing to long delays in receiving pay allotments, the boys are often in unpleasant straits for the want of a little ready money. This the chaplain frequently supplies.

Naval regulations bear, perhaps, the hardest upon sailors who have served sentences at Portsmouth; they do not carry with them the penalty of dishonorable discharge. During the period of the sentence the men are deprived of all pay except a small sum allowed them for the purchase of soap, tobacco, etc. When they come to the ship from Portsmouth they are nearly always penniless.

EDITORIAL.

The plan of the government to put the interned Germans to work on army farms is an excellent idea and one which should reap a two-fold benefit. These men are a menace to the country and a drag on the government, which must bear the expense of feeding and housing them.

Once they are turned into army farmers, however, their labors should reimburse the government to a large extent and at the same time cut down the expense of feeding the members of the National Army.

Their new occupation should prove beneficial to the prisoners themselves, as it will give them something to occupy their minds and the life in the open should make them healthier and more satisfied with their lot in life.

HOLIDAY GIVEN SOLDIERS AT DEVENS

By WILLIAM FLYNN

Camp Devens, Ayer, May 30.—Today was a general holiday in the cantonment, and the impressive memorial ceremony, which included the entire 76th Division, was the only military activity scheduled to take place. The remainder of the day was given over to sports and in addition to the division meet, several inter-regimental baseball games were on the program for the afternoon.

Preparations were made to receive a large crowd of visitors as only the customary 18 per cent. of the soldiers in the cantonment were granted leaves of absence for the day. Early today the weather threatened to interfere with the sporting events, although it was stated the division parade and prayer on the main parade field would be held regardless of the weather.

Several impromptu entertainments were staged in company barracks for the benefit of visitors, and the members of several of the companies who were unable to get away arranged spreads for relatives and friends who were expected at the cantonment during the day. Orders were issued to keep the observance of the holiday within the limits prescribed in the President's proclamation.

The 1,500 "rookies" who just arrived from Maine spent most of the day about their barracks. Some of them received their equipment, but most of them will not be outfitted until next week, by which time they are expected to have received their physical examinations.

NOTABLE DAY FOR G. A. R. IN WORCESTER

George H. Ward Post Has Today Second Largest Membership in Country

Worcester, May 30.—Memorial day has a new and deep significance for the members of George H. Ward Post No. 10, G. A. R. For as they march today to decorate the graves of nearly 2,000 comrades the country is again at war and for the principles for which they went forth to do battle in '61 to '65.

One of the oldest, as well as the second largest post in the country, George H. Ward Post feels keenly its responsibility to impress upon the youth of the country that they must be ready to sacrifice everything for the sacred cause of liberty even as they did more than half a century ago.

The present officers of the post are sustaining the great heritage left to them by members whose deeds in war have national fame. The late Gen. Charles Devens, for whom Camp Devens at Ayer was named, was for years a member of this post and the post bears the name of a famous Civil War leader, Col. George H. Ward of the 15th Massachusetts Regiment, who lost a leg at Antietam and was killed at Gettysburg.

Upon the bronze tablets in its hall are the names of 2,279 men, scores of whom played a leading part in the civic, educational and political life of the State.

One of its charter members, Col. James A. Titus, is still living, vigorous and strong at the age of eighty-one. He is proud of his fifty-one years' membership and shares the honor with only one other living man, R. Elliot Blake of Boston.

Col. Titus was a lieutenant in the 6th Massachusetts Regiment in the Civil War. For many years he was colonel and afterwards assistant adjutant-general of the Massachusetts Militia, and practised law in this State for 45 years. He is now patriotic instructor to the youth of Worcester.

Commander Genery T. Darling in the trying days of the war proved that he had the stuff of which heroes are made by trying to enlist when lacking six months of being fourteen. He was sent home, but in two years he passed himself off as eighteen and spent his last dollar to reach New York City from Orange, N. J., in order to join the heavy artillery. The post considers itself fortunate in having him for its commander.

The decoration of more than 1,000 graves in Hope cemetery is a labor of love for Comrade Charles R. Ayres, with the assistance of other comrades in the post. Comrades Henry A. Winn, James Armstrong, Maurice Cahill and Bruce Tromby all are taking prominent parts in the exercises of the day.

Edwin J. Foster, one of the sturdiest of the veterans, is considered one of the youngest living members of the Grand Army in this country. He is only 69 years and enlisted when only a boy of fourteen. The post also owes much to Senior Vice-Commander Charles E. Morey, Jr., and Junior Vice-Commander Frank G. Keaton, who are always active in anything that concerns the welfare of the veterans.

Organized as an independent organization before the Grand Army came into being, George H. Ward Post has today the second largest membership in the country in its 336 members. Its big and beautiful hall was bought partly by public subscription and is dedicated by the post to the men of all wars for freedom in America. It contains valuable relics and souvenirs of the Civil War and upon its muster rolls are the names of men who helped to make history and assisted in shaping the destinies of free America.

Today the memory and deeds of these men are honored in the following program.

8:30 a. m.—Exercises on the Common. Prayer by Rev. Leopold Nies. Address by City Solicitor John W. Mawbey.

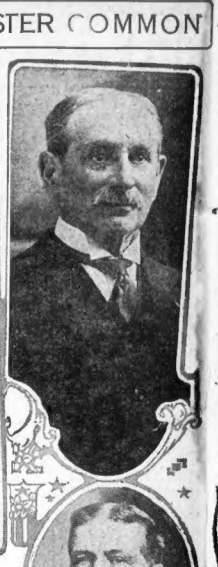
10 a. m.—Parade of the following organizations: Battery B, Batt. George H. Ward Post, G. A. R., William Grout and A. D. Goodell camps, Sons of Veterans; Continental Drum Corps; Col. E. H. Shumway Camp, Spanish War Veterans.

13 m.—Decoration of soldiers' graves at Hope Cemetery, St. Johns' Cemetery, Notre Dame Cemetery and Rural Cemetery.

1 p. m.—Dinner in G. A. R. Hall, followed by patriotic exercises.

HONOR G. A. R. ON WORCESTER COMMON

Charles R. Ayres of George H. Ward post, in charge of decoration of a thousand soldier graves in Hope cemetery.



Genery T. Darling (at top), commander of George H. Ward post; Colonel Joseph A. Titus, one of the two living charter members of the post.

CIRCUS STARS KEEP BUSY ALL THE TIME

One of the busiest places in all Boston is the arena of the Circus tents during the morning hours at the Huntington avenue show grounds. The Barnum & Bailey circus has been in full swing for several days and running as smoothly as a piece of well-oiled machinery. This would cause one to imagine that with these conditions the hard work was all over, and that the many performers had nothing else to do but make their two appearances in the arena daily.

It has been truly said that no man is so wrapped up in his business as is the man connected with the circus. If he has a good act more than likely it will be copied by some one who would never have thought of it in the first place, and yet he able to give it a new turn that will improve it. If there is any improving to be done he wants to do it himself, and so it follows that all of his spare time is given over to rehearsals.

The circus manager approves of this to such an extent that he turns the arena over to the performers every morning. The picture is an odd one. Women clad in gingham knickers and others in bloomers are practicing on the bars high in the air.

YOUNG COUPLE FAIL IN DEATH PACT

Worcester Pair Found Unconscious, Locked in Each Other's Arms

Worcester, May 30.—Miss Marie Koskie, a twenty-year old Finnish girl, and Charles Wainionpa, twenty-eight, are still in an unconscious condition in the City Hospital as the result of inhaling illuminating gas in a death pact which was discovered when the two were found, locked in each other's arms, in the rear of the stage in the Finnish Workingmen's Hall.

Wainionpa lost four brothers, who were members of the White Guards of Finland, in a recent battle with the Red Guards, and he has been brooding over their deaths. No reason why the young woman should seek to die with Wainionpa is known.

The couple were found wrapped in a blanket in which had been placed a tube through which the fumes escaped. A note which Wainionpa left read:

"I wanted help. I could not get it, so have decided to end the shameful work. Although Marie is innocent, she is coming with me. Good luck and best wishes to the working people." In a postscript the young woman added:

"We are using the hall because we have no home. Good-by to our friends."

ALIEN ENEMY ARRESTED IN WATERFRONT BARRED ZONE

Fritz Tiemessmann, aged thirty-five, of Cambridge, was placed under arrest by a member of the Department of Justice late yesterday afternoon while he was walking through the barred zone on Atlantic avenue.

Tiemessmann, who is a German alien enemy, was brought to the Federal building, where he was questioned by United States Marshal John J. Mitchell, who ordered him committed to the East Cambridge jail, where he will remain to await the action of the United States Attorney here who will in the meantime confer with the authorities in Washington.

CHICK WEST AND DAVE POWERS COLLIDE

Welterweights Top Bill at Commercial A. C.—De Angeles vs. McCormack

CARD AT COMMERCIAL A. C.

Final Bout—Dave Powers of Malden vs. Chick West of Holyoke, ten rounds.

Semi-final: Dan McCormack of East Boston vs. Charley de Angeles of Revere, ten rounds.

Second bout: Charley Barrelli of Weymouth vs. Girard Giannini of Lawrence, ten rounds.

Curtain-raiser: Eddie Flynn of Peabody vs. Sam Bell of the South End, eight rounds.

Referee: Larry Conley.

Starting times: 8 p. m.

By J. P. MURPHY.

The Commercial A. C. will stage an all-star holiday show, consisting of three eight-round bouts and an eight-round curtain-raiser, at its quarters, in the West End, tonight.

Dave Powers, Malden welterweight, and Chick West of Holyoke are underlined to furnish the final number.

West is generally rated one of the best boys of his weight in Western Massachusetts, and, if right, should make it extremely interesting for the Malden sorrel-top.

Charley de Angeles of Revere and Dan McCormack of East Boston, combatants in a rugged set-to at the Commercial Club early this Spring, are down to clash in the semi-final. The third ten-rounder will be rendered by Charley Barrelli of Weymouth and Girard Giannini of Lawrence. This should result in considerable of a swatfest and was booked. Manager McKirdy after Kid Henry arranged this engagement with Billy Woods.

Lid Lifted on Morgan; Britton Is to Box Downey in Hub

By H. W. LANIGAN.

Assistant Matchmaker George Freeman of the Armory A. A. announces that Jack Britton of New York and Bryan Downey of Columbus, O., two welterweights of unmistakable class, have been matched to meet at the Arena Tuesday night, June 11.

Freeman's announcement evidently means that the Triple-A has relegated Dumb Dan Morgan, New York fistic manager, and his stable of boxers. Morgan and all the battlers operating under his guidance, were given "the gate" when Battling Levinsky and Bill Brennan pulled their sad number at the Grand Opera House last Winter.

Morgan continues to manage Britton, and, while no official manifesto concerning his reinstatement has been issued to date, Dumb Dan, along with his string, has evidently been restored to good standing by Murray, Lewis, MacLean & Co.

The Britton-Downey bout is far and away the most meritorious one booked by the Armory A. A. this season. Britton, an out-and-out topliner among the 145-pounders, always delivers big in the Hub, while Downey scored heavily when on with Tommy Robson in his lone Boston start last January.

Downey beat the Malden boy every inch, foot and yard of the way and gave every indication of being just about the best battler of his poundage in the land.

The Britton-Downey fuss takes the place of the proposed Shevlin-Dyer encounter. The latter scrap is off, state Armory A. A. officials, because forfeits did not go up, as commanded, ditto promised.

Billy Henderson, Shevlin's manager, states that he was willing to put up Yeoman Eddie's forfeit, but that Al Lippe, Dyer's backer, refused to come across. Be that as it may, the bout is off, but may be booked later.

Freeman states that Johnny Dundee and Frankie (Young) Britt are all but matched to mingle in the big number June 18.

MARION GOOSBY HIGHLY RATED BY COLLYER

Filly in Tip-Top Trim, States Noted Expert—Bradley's Choice Best in Feature

By BERT E. COLLYER.

Bradley's choice. Here's one of the games' horses that ever looked through a bridle.

Better still, he's ready to run the best race of his career, and, with anything like snug riding, will bring home the bacon today.

He goes in the fourth at Louisville and has nothing much to trim. But a whispered about as a good thing. He's been working great guns and may be jerked out of the can, but it's a bad spot to shoot in.

Grundy is rank in-and-outer. His last race was a true one, however, and a repeater of that effort would make him dangerous. The American Eagle closely. Here's a sleeper from Sleepervville; I know something.

WATCH FOSTER EMBRY.

Foster Embry was scratched out of a nice spot the other day especially to go here. He has nothing much to trim and may bring home the bacon.

Churchill Downs is well liked by the boys at the track because of some sensational morning trials. Omeme and Buncrana should be fighting it out at the end for coop money.

We're going to yank a fin nickle out of the brine in the second. Is Marion Goosby. She is as fit as hands can make her and has a chance to cop at juicy odds. A nice spot for the across-the-board players to get in their work.

Sedan's last was a hummer and they'll probably make him favorite on the strength of it. Bringhurst will be troublesome. He has been freshened up, and, when right, can trim this sort of company. Throw out Jim Crump's last race. It was too bad to be true.

Straight from the feed box comes the info that a certain clique of wise-birds will set in the works on Aunt Flora to win the third. She is said to be a speed marvel, but is in a tough spot, so don't overplay your hand. Carrie Moore and Batter Cake won their last races.

TWO SLEEPERS TAB.

The Camden and Woodford entry will carry the wise money in the fifth. It's a tough race, as there's a couple of sleepers that are likely to spill the beans. These are A. N. Akin and Leschares. My advice is to tab both closely.

Lottery, at juicy odds, maye be on the front end of the procession in the sixth. He has a little class and the route just suits.

Baby Lynch is long overdue. The seventh is the spot for the bird to come to life with a rattle.

VIC MORAN A SET-UP FOR FRANKIE CALLAHAN

Jersey City, May 20.—Frankie Callahan, Brooklyn lightweight, scored an easy victory over Vic Moran of New Orleans in the first of the professional bouts in New Jersey, held in an open-air arena. Moran was saved from a knockout in the sixth round when the referee stopped the bout. Callahan scored six knockdowns.

JOE RIVERS IS KAYOED BY DANISH GLOVESMAN

Newport, R. I., May 20.—Victor Dahl, Danish middleweight, knocked out Joe Rivers of Gloucester, Mass., in the sixth round of a carded twelve-round bout at the Rollo A. C.

JOE EAGAN TO ENTER CAMP UPTON, IS REPORT

New York, May 20.—Joe Eagan, well-known Boston middleweight boxer, who is in Class 1 of the draft, has received orders to report at Camp Upton Saturday.

Dempsey Kayos Pelky

Denver, May 20. — Jack Dempsey, Salt Lake City heavyweight, knocked out Arthur Pelky, Canadian champion, in the first round. The bout lasted less than a minute.

PASSING OF BIG JESS WILLARD INEVITABLE

Public Doesn't Want Any Big Things Pugilistically, and It's Back to Farm for Champion

Chicago, May 20.—Now that the Jess Willard-Fred Fulton heavyweight championship battle is off until after the war, which practically means for good, the passing of Jess Willard will probably follow soon.

Some match for war charities might be arranged, but it is hardly probable.

Public sentiment seems to have been so thoroughly aroused against a heavyweight match that there is little likelihood of Willard ever getting into the ring again in a title bout.

Willard will probably retire. He never did care much for the fight game, engaging in it merely as a means to an end; that is, the amassing of a fortune.

This he has done and it will not be necessary for him to enter the ring again for the main purpose of swelling his bank account.

With Willard disposed of there remains only two men in the heavyweight field, Fulton and Jack Dempsey. Pacific coast slugger.

Dempsey always has been cursed for a crack at Jess, but whether he will have any success in luring Jess into the ring for a ten-round bout is quite problematical.

He must look to Fulton if he wants a chance at the title which will probably be in the air if Willard retires.

But with Willard out of the way Fulton must come through and give Jack a chance to demonstrate his powers.

Corbett's Corner

By JAMES J. CORBETT.

This is the third of a series of articles which Mr. Corbett is writing concerning the career of the late Frank Gotch, who went to his grave the undefeated heavyweight wrestling champion of the world.

The story of Frank Gotch's debut as a boxer is told best by Joe C. Marsh, who was with him at the time and was one of the few who saw the great wrestler in his initial—and ludicrous—effort as a prize fighter.

"Gotch and I had a shack in Dawson City in the Klondike and I was there alone one night when he came rushing in," relates Marsh. "Hardly had he closed the door behind him when he yelled at me:

"'Well, Joe, I guess I fell into something pretty soft just now.'

"'How is that?' I asked.

"'Why, I'm going to take part in a prize fight next week and I've certainly got a cinch.'

"'Why, you're no fighter, Frank,' I said.

"'I don't have to be,' retorted Gotch, 'They're going to match me with that old worn out Frank Slavin. I was up to town this afternoon and they got to talking about fighting and Slavin was there and he kept kidding me.

"'Is said that I was a pretty good wrestler but a wrestler and a fighter were a whole lot different.

CONFIDENT OF RING ABILITY.

"I was willing—and so was Slavin. So we are matched to fight fifteen rounds. And you can take it from me, that I'll give that old boy an awful lacing. I owe him something for the way he was kidding me.'

"I tried to talk Frank out of that match," continued Marsh, "but he wouldn't listen to me. I knew about Slavin and what a wonderful heavyweight he was in his prime.

"When he was at his best many ranked him as at least the equal of John L. Sullivan. I told all that to Gotch, but he just laughed.

"'Say, that old boy is nearly forty now, and if I can't whip him I ought to be ashamed of myself.'

"'You will be, Frank, if you go on with the match. Those fellows simply are baiting you. They want to have some fun at your expense. Slavin will cut you to ribbons. Even if he has retired from the game he still retains his old-time cunning, and he's in fine physical condition.'

"But Gotch wouldn't heed my counsel and insisted that I act as one of his seconds for that match.

NO MATCH FOR VETERAN.

"The little hall where the fight was put on was packed when the two warriors entered the ring. But, undaunted, Frank Gotch tried to hit Frank Slavin again—and once more his only reward was to be placed on the receiving end of a jab.

MATINEE TODAY at 2 P.M.
"Hearts of the World"
Out-of-town visitors to Boston will be glad to know that D. W. GRIFFITH'S tremendous production, "HEARTS OF THE WORLD," can be seen this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the MAJESTIC THEATRE.
"HEARTS OF THE WORLD" is the sweetest love story ever told—a romance of the great war. The production was made under the authority of the British and French War Offices, and the wonderful battle scenes shown were taken on the actual battlefields of France.
"HEARTS OF THE WORLD" is now in its seventh capacity week at the MAJESTIC THEATRE, and has proven the greatest sensation in the history of the Boston stage.
The prices for today's matinee will be the same as on all other days—25c to $1, with more than 600 choice seats at 50c. Another performance tonight at 8 o'clock—prices 25c to $1.50. Patrons must secure their seats in advance in order to avoid the ticket speculators. Plenty of good seats now on hand at the box office of the MAJESTIC THEATRE.

MOTORISTS IN BIG RACES

De Palma Rules Favorite to Land Harkness Handicap at Sheepshead Bay Track

New York, May 30.—The greatest constellation of star drivers ever assembled in one race starts in the Harkness Handicap at Sheepshead Bay speedway this afternoon. This 100-mile classic, for which $30,000 in prizes is offered, inaugurates the automobile racing season which promises to be the most successful in the annals of the thrilling game.

As a prelued to the big race, the Futurity Handicap and several sprint events will be run. The Futurity will be in two heats and a final at ten miles. Ralph De Palma and Dario Resta will start from scratch in the two heats.

In the Harkness Handicap, Louis Chevrolet, speedway champion of 1917 will be the only one to start from the honor mark. The gala speed carnival will start at 3 o'clock.

Chevrolet receives the scratch input because he holds the track record for 100 miles—54 minutes 24 seconds—made in winning the Harkness Gold Trophy race before 75,000 people last year. Other will consider handicaps to such world famous drivers as De Palma, Resta, Barney Oldfield, Ralph Mulford, Ira Vail, Eddie Hearne and Tommy Milton, as well as to a dozen other pilots of slightly less renown.

De Palma, who has been given a handicap of 1 minute 1 second, is the favorite for the chief prize. De Palma won the sprint championship in 1917 and is holder of the world's six-hour record of 633 miles.

RESTA IN "COMEBACK."

Resta, world's champion, and speed king in 1915-1916, will command much attention with his new car, equipped with a 3 1-2 cylinder motor of his own construction.

Resta caused a speed of 130 miles an hour for his machine. He gets a handicap of 1 minutes 3 seconds.

Barney Oldfield, "master driver," will start his farewell tour with this afternoon's big race. After seventeen years in the front ranks, tempting fate in auto races, Oldfield will retire after this season, but he hopes to go out of the limelight with the speed crown in his possession.

Two weeks ago Oldfield defeated Chevrolet in a match race at Corona, but the margin of 27 100 of a second! Barney's handicap is 2 1-5.

Ralph Mulford, Vanderbilt Cup winner, is considered the "dark horse" and his chance is big. But Eddie Hearne will be favored with a start of 2 12. Tommy Milton with 2.11 and Ira Vail with 2 31.

RICKENBACHER'S CAR ENTERED.

The racing trumps of Lieutenant Eddie Rickenbacher will be recalled in the Harkness Handicap, as his famous Duesenberg will be driven by William Vetera, a Brooklyn boy.

Lieutenant Rickenbacher drove this car to victory in the Tacoma derby, at 360 miles, just before he enlisted in Uncle Sam's service. Lieutenant Rickenbacher has already bagged three German planes "over there."

Then there will be Omar Toft, the Pacific Coast champion, and Hearn who finished fifth in the Harkness Gold Trophy race; Percy Ford, the Chicago millionaire; Ted Tetzlaff Peterman, the Pittsburgh speed demon, and seven others.

About twenty in all will face Starter Fred J Wagner for the biggest start of the year.

100,000 MAY SEE RACES.

Promoter William H. Wellman has made preparations to handle the greatest crowd that has ever witnessed a sporting event in this country and expects 100,000 to flock to the speedway course today. It will be a popular-priced show, despite the fact that the world's greatest drivers will risk life and limb in the fight for gold and glory.

EBBETS CALLS OFF SUNDAY BALL GAME

Brooklyn, May 30.—Charles H. Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn club, announces that he has abandoned the idea of staging a championship game between the Dodgers and the Giants at Ebbets Field on Sunday for the benefit of the Red Cross. Ebbets stated that the Brooklyn Red Cross committee thought it best not to violate the law, inasmuch as the borough went over the top in the recent Red Cross drive.

BIG LEAGUE UMPIRES TO HANDLE SERVICE GAME

The free service game on Braves Field Sunday, between the Harry P. Boston Navy Yard team and the Second Naval District nine of Newport, will be umpired by two National League arbitrators. Playing time is 2 30 o'clock.

Herb Thormahlen Off A-Flying and Idol of Yankee Fans

By JACK VEIOCK.

Sports Editor of the International News Service.

New York, May 30. — Herbert Thormahlen, young left hander, purchased from Baltimore by the Yankees, is the best looking slabman introduced into the American League company in several years.

Thormahlen has a prospect for stardom but in the meantime he is the real goods. He has overcome his fault, and if he does, as Miller Huggins believes he will, the Yankees will be repaid ten fold for the cash laid out when they purchased him from Jack Dunn.

Baltimore brought Thormahlen into the Orioles company from the sand lots of Jersey City, where he played semi-professional ball.

After looking him over Jack Dunn sent him to the Blue Ridge League for a little seasoning, calling him back to the Orioles after one year in the circuit.

Dunn's judgment on the lanky fork-hander was good, for he proved a big winner with Baltimore, winning twenty-five games last season and being credited with defeat but twelve times in forty-six games in which he took part. The year previous, with Chambersburg, he won thirteen pastimes and lost seven.

SCHOOL CREWS READY FOR FINALS IN REGATTA

The four-oared crews of Boston Latin, Huntington School, Brookline High and Cambridge Latin qualified for the finals of the Boston Interscholastic Rowing Association regatta and will hit it up tomorrow.

Boston College High eased out in place.

Its captain and stroke, Collins, was not in the boat.

The second division crews to qualify were Huntington, Commerce, Boston College High and Boston Latin. Huntington won in its heat over Commerce, while Boston College High scored by a narrow margin over Boston Latin.

B. C. AND TUFTS TEAMS MEET ON NEWTON OVAL

The Boston College and Tufts teams were to clash on A usual Heidt Newton College Field today. The Upper City Heights outfit won from the Medford boys in their game on Tufts Oval, 5 to 2, last month and was hopeful of making it two straight over the Brown and Brown.

Jimmy Fitzpatrick was slated to go to the hillock for Boston College, to Marra or Shaw was underlined to twirl for Tufts. Playing time was 3 o'clock.

HARVARD EIGHT TAKES WORKOUT OVER COURSE

Derby, Ct., May 30—The Harvard varsity eight took a workout over the two-mile course and negotiated it in 12 minutes 45 seconds. The water was rough and a stiff wind was blowing across the course. The eight was made up as follows:

Stroke, R. S. Abbot (captain), No 7, B. W. Whitman, No. 6, S. L. Whittington; No. 5, F. Perkman; No. 4, P. Batcheider; No. 3, J. F. Linder; No. 2, J. F. Coleman; bow, R. H. Bowen.

SOX NOTES

By NICK FLATLEY.

UP TO the time Harry Hooper crossed the saucer in the second inning, Walter Johnson had gone forty frames without being scored on. He had, incidentally, won five games in a row.

PICINI H. DIDN'T have the kind of a time he's name would sug. Being asked in to catch the Portsmouth Perfit in March part of Industrial League game, he only got two put before the game, coming up from Atlanta, Ga.

LITTLE EDDIE Foster has the American League record thus far this season. He has stopped safely in seventeen consecutive games. But he hasn't been getting much support.

FULLERTON'S COLUMN

By HUGH S. FULERTON.

With the first clash between the Eastern and Western divisions of the two major leagues over, it is possible to get a line on the relative strength of the teams.

In spite of the slump of the Giants in the West, they still appear to be the class of the National League.

The team was going too strong during the home stay, hitting close to .320 as a team, and in the West they batted about .245, which is twenty points lower than the normal batting power of the club.

They were stopped by five pitching, but did not show weakness in the field. A good ball club is every game excepting one.

The setback of the Giants has pleased the league immensely and restored interest to a race which threatened to be a runaway.

The Cubs and Cincinnati are going strong, Chicago because Mitchell has great pitching and has big team hustling and playing the game every minute.

WILL MISS KILLIFER.

The catching will not be as good when Killifer goes to the army, and several of the veterans are certain to slow up as the season advances.

The Braves did splendidly in the West and took set to land in the big four at an early date. Perhaps Stallings will keep them there; in fact he made a record considerable of a surprise with his club.

The American League team now prominent in the contest in the history of the organization. I never have seen a league with the clubs so closely matched in strength.

There are six of them that are take-your-pick practically on any day. Philadelphia, Washington and Detroit confident that everyone at some time or other will show errors and more as the ball coming back and trotted back to the base. Then he asked,

"How many out Mac?"

I was such a mystery to me until recently when Babe Schang ever managed to get out of the league, or rather got a peek at the promising pitcher while with the Giants. This week it earned the release, or rather got a chance to sit on the bench in indignant anger.

WHY McGRAW WAS PEEVED.

No one understood what the trouble was until recently. It seems Tinney McGraw had left that limit for the Giants and hit the first ball pitched to right field for a clean single. He turned first base, saw

"ART FOR ART'S SAKE" WITH MITZI

Little Prima Donna Became Acrobat to Take Part in "Head Over Heels"

By FRED J. McISAAC.

"What we do for art! It is wonderful," said Mitzi.

At the same moment she rubbed herself regretfully in a particular place and resumed her chair.

You see, I was interviewing Mitzi at her hotel and the tiny star had boasted that she could do the jackknife.

The jackknife is an acrobatic feat. You keep your knees straight, slowly bend over until you bump your nose against your knee caps. If your backbone is made of india rubber you can do it.

I'll bet you can't," I said to Mitzi.

"Watch me," said the little prima donna.

She did it, corsets and everything, but in resuming her position she lost her balance, toppled over backwards and bumped herself on the nice, hard floor. That's when she said:

"Oh, we artists will do anything for our art," and she laughed, a contagious Mitzi laugh.

SUPPOSED TO BE ACROBAT.

In "Head Over Heels," which is playing at the Tremont Theatre, Mitzi is supposed to be a member of an acrobatic troupe known as the Hamshinetti family. She amazes her audience by athletic stunts which would do credit to a professional.

"Did you ever do such work before?" I asked her.

"Oh, no," replied Mitzi. "I just danced and sang; this was new to me. When Colonel Savage read me the play and I found I was an acrobat I said: 'Ha, ha, this means that I go to do some stunts.' Yes?"

"Oh, no," replied the colonel. "We'll fake it. You won't have to do anything."

"Oh, yes I will," I replied. "I don't fake things. If I play the part I have got to learn how to be an acrobat. I think maybe it will be fun."

"If you break your leg, it won't be any fun for either of us," replied the manager.

Then what do you suppose he did? He went out and doubled my insurance in case anything happened to me.

"I started right in learning how to tumble and work as an acrobat. It was lots of fun, but hard work. I worked with these boys, who are real acrobats, and they taught me lots. I assure you that what I do in the show is nothing."

"Why don't you do more."

"Colonel Savage won't let me. Mitzi," he said, 'if you should fall and break your neck it would not only be bad for you, but it would throw all these good people out of employment and cost us all a great deal of money.' So I just do enough not to be called a faker."

"What do you do in your leisure time besides the jack knife?"

"Oh, I read and study and write to my friends and occasionally take motor rides. I haven't so very much time. Of course, I shop. I love jewels and things."

GOOD INVESTMENT.

"I presume that ring cost you about a year's salary?"

The ring was a gigantic diamond set in platinum which was supposed to be on the middle finger of her left hand but which covered the hand. Without exaggeration the stone was as big as a half dollar and as dazzling as an automobile headlight to a new driver.

"That's just so," replied Mitzi, proudly waving the searchlight. "It is eighteen carats large, and it was a good investment because diamonds have gone up since I got it. I have two more at home nearly as big. When I get there all on I am quite bright."

"I think you are a very bright girl," remarked as I reached for my hat.

"That's an American joke, I suppose," said Mitzi. "I've got something else too, what do you think of these?"

She had turned her back, and when she whisked around she wore a pair of huge horn spectacles.

"Auto goggles?"

"No, for my eyes when I read very much. Would you know me in them?"

They certainly transformed her pert little countenance.

"Why don't you wear them when you make your entrance in the first act through the transom?"

"No," declared Mitzi. "I showed them to Colonel Savage and said I was going to wear them. 'Don't,' said he. 'You look bad enough now.'"

BUYERS BUSY TODAY IN AUTOMOBILE ROW

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

All the showrooms on automobile row are open today. The holidays are the only time that some busy men can spare from business and they improve their time on such days by looking over the various models or completing the negotiations for that new car.

It is not a question this year of what car one would like to buy, but what car one can get. The shortage of passenger cars is no longer a supposition—it is a reality which has to be faced by both dealer and customer, and those buyers who took the advice of the newspapers early in the spring and placed their orders are the ones who are now reaping the benefit of their wisdom.

The shortage of cars applies not only to the new car field, but also the used car market. People who cannot get new cars are fixing up the old ones and making them do for another season. If the prospective buyer has not made a decision regarding the purchase of his car it is time for him to do it at once.

Probably nothing is more annoying to the motorist than the presence of broken glass on the highways, because there seems to be no necessity for this except in rare cases of accident. Motorists have complained recently of the great amount of glass on the roads. Parties seem to take delight in throwing empty bottles on the highways, and bottles are often thrown from the platforms of trolley cars, breaking on the pavements and causing innumerable punctures. This is a form of malicious mischief which ought to be punished by a penalty so severe that a few cases would effectually stamp out the evil.

PARAGON PARK IS THRONGED AT OPENING

Hundreds Enjoy Fine Entertainment Provided by Manager Dodge in Palm Garden

Paragon Park and Nantasket Beach were officially opened for the season of 1918 last evening in the presence of throngs of night-seers who make it a rule never to miss this opening, and they were not alone in their enjoyment of this beautiful shore place, for hundreds came from Boston and elsewhere, taking advantage of the fine condition of the roads for automobiling, and also the fine evening for the water trip via the Nantasket boats, which have begun their late trips.

And those present last night found that Manager George A. Dodge had provided a fine entertainment for them. As ever, the Palm Garden, which made its seating capacity for 2,000 seem quite a table, was the big attraction.

And the menu this year is up to the high standard set by Mr. Dodge long ago. The cabaret was the elaborate one and the program was varied.

The leading number on this program is called "Mermaidia Previvious," in which Mermaida and her beautiful diving girls show what can be done in and under water by those who know how. And there is the New Paradise Revue, in which are some forty cabaret performers—a whole show in itself.

Though an east wind was in evidence it was quite comfortable in the open, where the big attraction is De Carno, who does marvelous stunts on a 100-foot pole. Gorham's high class horses also helped entertain, and again Mermaida came to the front with her remarkable high dive.

HOTELS RESPONSIBLE FOR NOISY GUESTS

Hotels are responsible for disturbing noises made by their guests after they have left for home, according to a ruling of Judge Chase of the Superior Court, in the case of Peter Bernstein, owner of residential property on Cherry street, against the Hotel Woodstock. The hotel must defend itself against the action brought by Bernstein, in which it is alleged that tenants have been disturbed by loud talk of patrons leaving the hotel, and also by unnecessary noise of automobile horns.

The demurrer filed for the hotel held that it was not responsible for the noise of automobiles or guests after they had left.

PIGEON—

This Day America Honors Her Heroes of the Civil War

This is the day which the American people have set aside to commemorate the American soldiers and sailors who saved the American democracy from dissolution during the Civil War, and who have been gathered to their fathers.

It is a day equalling in importance the Fourth of July, when we celebrate the birthday of the Nation. No other day can be more important to the Nation, because no other event and no other service, past or future, can be more important than the Civil War and the sacrifices which the soldiers of the Grand Army of the Republic made in that death struggle to decide whether or not a government of the people, for the people and by the people should perish from the earth.

The Civil War was the most destructive contest known in history until the outbreak of the present world war. In loss of life, limb and property it exceeded in destructiveness any other struggle in history before or after, only excepting the present conflict which includes every branch of the human race.

When the children see the old, grizzled veterans in their blue uniforms and black slouch hats today let them remember that these men were once as young, as active, as [illegible] active to the eye, could shoot a rifle, train a cannon, march as far, bear as many hard[illegible] and fight as fiercely as any of the young men now in khaki. Let the young people [illegible]oday, when they see the white-haired veterans pass by in carriages, no longer able [illegible] to stand the heat and burden of the march, remember that these men had to march as [illegible] and fight as hard and to endanger life and limb quite as freely as our boys in khaki [illegible]'ll ever be obliged to march or fight or suffer. God grant that the day may not come [illegible]hen our youth must, for the Nation's sake, equal the sacrifices made by these old men [illegible]ed their foregathered comrades. In proportion to the numbers engaged, the battles [illegible]e Civil War were the bloodiest battles that have ever been fought, not excepting [illegible] battles of the present war. The wounds made by the rifle balls of the Civil War musket were beyond all comparison more terrible than the wounds made by the modern rifle. The Civil War musket bullet was as large as our modern elephant rifle bullet and three or four times larger than the bullets of our modern military rifles.

The method of handling the wounded in those days was nothing like our efficient modern practice. For hours the poor men would lie on the field bleeding to death and suffering agony from thirst. Then there was no anesthetic to render the soldier unconscious while the surgeon was removing his leg or his arm or digging for the buried bullet. Many a leg was taken off by a saw and the flow of the blood stopped by searing the flesh with a red-hot ax. The agony of those days will never come again, for however much civilization ebbs and flows within the characters of men, science moves on without retrogression.

In many remarkable respects what Daniel Webster said of the veterans of the Revolutionary War, when he addressed them on that famous occasion of the celebration of the completion of Bunker Hill Monument, may be said to our veterans today, with the one sad exception that the Revolutionary veterans in 1825 heard their orator in the midst of profound peace.

Venerable Men! you have come down to us from a former generation. Heaven has bounteously lengthened out your lives, that you might behold this joyous day. You are now where you stood fifty years ago, this very hour, with your brothers and your neighbors, shoulder to shoulder, in the strife for your country. Behold, how altered! The same heavens are indeed over your heads; the same ocean rolls at your feet; but all else how changed! You hear now no roar of hostile cannon, you see no mixed volumes of smoke and flame rising from burning Charlestown. The ground strewed with the dead and the dying; the impetuous charge; the steady and successful repulse; the loud call to repeated assault; the summoning of all that is manly to repeated resistance; a thousand bosoms freely and fearlessly bared in an instant to whatever of terror there may be in war and death—all these you have witnessed, but you witness them no more. All is peace. The heights of yonder metropolis, its towers and roofs, which you then saw filled with wives and children and countrymen in distress and terror, and looking with unutterable emotions for the issue of the combat, have presented you today with the sight of its whole happy population, come out to welcome and greet you with a universal jubilee.

Yonder proud ships, by a felicity of position appropriately lying at the foot of this mount, and seeming fondly to cling around it, are not means of annoyance to you, but your country's own means of distinction and defence. All is peace; and God has granted you this sight of your country's happiness ere you slumber in the grave. He has allowed you to behold and to partake the reward of your patriotic toils; and He has allowed us, your sons and countrymen, to meet you here, and in the name of the present generation, in the name of your country, in the name of liberty, to thank you!

But, alas! you are not all here! Time and the sword have thinned your ranks. Prescott, Putnam, Stark, Brooks, Read, Pomeroy, Bridge! our eyes seek for you in vain amid this broken band. You are gathered to your fathers, and live only to your country in her grateful remembrance and your own bright example. But let us not too much grieve, that you have met the common fate of men. You lived at least long enough to know that your work had been nobly and successfully accomplished. You lived to see your country's independence established, and to sheathe your swords from war. On the light of Liberty you saw arise the light of Peace, like and the sky on which you closed your eyes was cloudless.

"Another morn, Risen on mid-noon,"

More than one orator today will be interrupted by the rumble of a train bear[illegible]s, the youth of today, to the battle-front where the struggle of today is being [illegible] preserve democracy, even as the veterans struggled to preserve it over fifty [illegible] of liberty is eternal vigilance and eternal struggle.

The Pledge Renewed

"That we here highly resolve that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that the government of the people, by the people and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."
—ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The Climber Tells of Terrible Time She Is Having Owing to the Change in Things—Human Ant Baffled by War's Big Doings

By Winifred Black

THE CLIMBER caught me by the arm. "Were you going to pass me?" she said. "You can't be so hurried as all that. Or are you one of those dreadful 'war workers' who haven't a minute for their friends or for their family or for their own children, or for their club or for bridge or for weekends or for anything?"

And then she told me all about it. She's having a terrible time—is The Climber.

Things aren't at all what they used to be—oh, not at all!

No one's entertaining this season. There aren't any parties or any dancing teas—how can there be dancing with all the men away? and the debutantes are just heartbroken. Oh, they pretend to be patriotic and happy in it and all that, but of course it's all a pose. What the debutantes really want is music and flowers, and attention and, er—ah—all that kind of thing.

As for the older women, they're all more mad, stark, staring, raving mad—knitting sweaters and scarfs and "beanies," and packing boxes and writing letters, and serving on committees and inviting nobody-knows-who to the house just because he wears a uniform. And making speeches and singing patriotic songs. Why, it's simply unbearable!

The Climber's son hasn't gone yet—he'll have to, of course, with the next draft—but there's no earthly use of trying to get Daughter into the right set this year. There are no men in the set, anyway. Daughter might as well be a regular nobody for all the attention that's being paid to her this year, and The Climber did make such sacrifices and send her to such an expensive school just to get her in with the right people, and it's all for nothing and worse than nothing.

It's the same way everywhere, all the time. Nothing any use any more. Things aren't "done," and nobody cares.

And you hear the queerest people saying the queerest things right in the houses of your best friends. And people are Hooverizing and buying Liberty Bonds and having Thrift Stamp campaigns, and there doesn't seem to be room in the world for The Climber and her kind at all.

Of course I was sorry for The Climber—terribly sorry.

Poor thing! She was exactly like a little ant I saw in the garden path the other day.

The sun had come out unexpectedly, and the ants came out with it, and I sat and watched them, and wondered where they were all going in such a hurry, blithering and zooming at a great rate and making a terrible fuss about it.

So I took a straw and put it in the path and the ants couldn't cross it, so they held meetings and talked it over and denounced it and resolved against it, and turned and went the other way—around the straw.

But there was one ant who couldn't make up her mind to change the route, and she just backed away from the straw and turned around, and came back and backed away again, and turned around again, and turned back again, and each time she saw the straw she was just as surprised as she had been the minute she caught sight of it the first time.

And she simply couldn't get it into her head that this straw was something different and that she'd have to accommodate herself to the new idea.

Poor thing! I wonder if she's out in the garden yet, getting excited over the straw and trying to pretend that it isn't there.

What a puzzling thing life must be—to the human ant who never can get any point of view but her own. In these days of change and modification, I really don't blame her for feeling a bit out of it, do you?

MISERABLE SLACKER WORRIES WIFE

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

"TWIXT Love and Duty! That is the hard choice that many a man and woman have had to make. But the choice between lack of Love and Duty—or rather, between the claims of a love that is dead and a duty which one's inclination beckons—is sometimes an even harder one. For, as the correspondent who has submitted a problem of the sort to me says: "When a woman wants to do a thing very badly, she is quite likely to twist facts into reasons for doing that thing."

It is a nice point in casuistry that she raises a situation peculiarly of the present and illuminating suggestive of the extent to which the war has changed and entered into all our lives.

"I am a woman of twenty-five," she writes, "married eight years ago to a man who holds a responsible position, and who is also very well educated. We ran away and were married while I was at school and he in college. Very shortly afterward I found out that I had made a mistake, that I did not and never could love him. Yet he was and is a good man. I separated from him within a year, but two years later, at his earnest request, returned to him. He made my life so miserable begging me to return that I went back simply for the sake of peace, and have stayed ever since, although I have never been happy. I have earned a part of my living throughout our married life, and at least was happy in my work; so perhaps, if the war had not come up, we would have gone on in the same way to the end of the chapter, like many another mismated couple who present to the world a semblance of congeniality.

What She Did

"But the war came. I did my bit by working for the Red Cross and by sending things to friends of ours in the various camps who had entered the service. Also, I urged my husband to enlist. He is within the draft limits, physically fit, and I am able to support myself. There is no valid reason why he should not give his services. But he refuses, saying that he will not go as a private, because he has been accustomed to managing several hundred men and will not submit himself to the authority of an officer who probably knows less than himself. He also insists that he could not bear separation from me.

"I have felt, though, that if he had really wanted to go and had tried to go, instead of forcing me to get an exemption by declaring myself dependent upon him, I would have had more respect for him and might even have come to care for him a little.

"Now I myself have the opportunity to enter a hospital as a nurse, or rather to train for nursing. The work is hard, I know, but I am eager to undertake it and feel that I have a vocation in that direction. Ought I to leave my husband and do this? That is the question which is troubling me.

The Problem

"It is a serious step, I realize, especially when it may result in destroying his present usefulness. When I left him before, he seemed to let go in every way and rapidly sank to the dregs of society. He is happy now, and even if I am not, I ask myself if I would not be more unhappy in knowing that by leaving him I had wrecked his whole career.

"Then, on the other hand, I fall to wondering if I might not be doing him the greatest service by leaving him. He is older and more settled now, and perhaps he might find a woman who would really love him if I were out of the way. Perhaps he might have a family. It seems to me almost wicked for a woman to live as I do with a man whom she neither loves nor respects, when she thereby is ruining her own life and at the same time giving him nothing worth having."

He has had his chance to serve, and has shamefully evaded it by cringing behind a woman's petticoats and muttering specious excuses. Now the wife's opportunity has come, and her soul aflame with patriotism, she is eager to embrace it. Is she to stand back from the call to duty in order to prop up this flabby counterfeit of manhood?
